[BY JOHN H. RAFTERY.]

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 28.—[Special Correspondence.]—It is impossible to be a day in Ottawa, the capital of the dominion of Canada, without realizing that the country is advancing politically and commercially towards the crisis of its career.

The government, led by Premier Sir Wilfrid Laurier, is in the hands of the liberals, who are, or were, essentially the free trade party. The majority in the house of commons is, therefore, liberal, of course, but it is also French, since Quebec, with its representation of sixty-five members, constitutes the Laurier majority, which is about fifty-eight.

The Laurier government is not only committed to tariff reduction by ante-election announcements, but it is also in the advantageous position of waiting for the development of Mr. Chamberlain's British policy of imperial trade unity. In the budget speech of Minister of Finance Fielding, delivered a year ago last April, the Laurier administration forecasted its program by putting the onus of tariff legislation upon the English leader.

Influence on Chamberlain.

In effect, that initial pronouncement of the liberal government of Canada, addressing itself to Chamberlain soon after the imperial colonial interference, to which Sir Wilfrid Laurier was the leading delegate, said:

"Canada needs and demands an extended market. Get busy, England, or we will be obliged to look to other markets."

It is worth noting that Mr. Chamberlain was in South Africa when this budget speech of the Canadian government was promulgated, and that immediately upon his return to England the Birmingham statesman proposed his scheme of an imperial tariff with colonial preferences, to the end of establishing the commercial unity of the British empire.

Not Committed to Chamberlain.

It has been said, perhaps mistakenly, that the Laurier government was thus forehandedly disposed towards Chamberlainism. The truth is that neither Sir Wilfrid nor any of the ministers of his government are in any way committed to an official or political support of the Chamberlain proposals with regard to tariff.

Naturally the liberal party is not given to the imperialist idea. Quite properly, also, it refuses to express opinions or predilections on a matter that must be first passed upon by the English electorate.

The conservative minority in parliament is unquestionably devoted to a tariff policy of an imperial unity. When the Chamberlain idea becomes a fact in England, the conservatives of Canada will devote all their energies to the imperial tariff with colonial preference policy. Even the free traders, the liberals here do not doubt that sooner or later the Chamberlain plan will prevail in England, and that the opposition here will go before the people on that platform as the paramount issue.

Canadians Favor Reciprocity.

It is quite freely admitted that, patriotism and sentiment aside, the weight of public opinion in Canada is still in favor of a fair reciprocal treaty with the United States. Tariff or no tariff, it is impossible for the practical to get away from the fact that these two contiguous countries are the best customers that either could wish for.

But there are two obstacles in the way of a renewal of trade facilities. One, and perhaps the most important, is the widespread and growing patriotic sentiment of Canada with regard to England; and the other is the [illegible] hostile, or at least discouraging, [illegible] of the American congress towards [illegible] reciprocal approaches. Both of these obstacles are great, tangible, imminent.

When I say that the Laurier party is playing a waiting game so far as tariff legislation is concerned, the reasons must be simultaneously apparent. So far as national policies are concerned there is less divergence [illegible] between the conservatives, who are out, and the liberals, who are in, than there is between the democratic and republican parties in the United States in the impending [illegible]. The liberals, to be plain, have [illegible] of whatever political foundation [illegible] to stand upon at the beginning [illegible] to power by the repellant [illegible] the United States with regard to [illegible]

[illegible] are waiting a Chamberlain success in England to place once more in their [illegible] reasons for the promulgation of the [illegible] of their statesmanship.

To Force America's Hand.

[illegible] shall the liberals of Canada believe the instant the Chamberlain all-[illegible] tariff becomes a fact, the United [illegible] awaken to a realization of the [illegible] the greatest market in the world [illegible] to be lost to the United States. [illegible] opinion of the liberals of Canada [illegible] Washington will come to Ottawa with [illegible] proposition of fair, and, perhaps, [illegible] terms. In the words of a liberal [illegible] who thus outlined the future for the United States will say to Canada:

[illegible] You are going to sell your horse [illegible] England? Why we will pay you more [illegible] for the beast, and we can trade

FAIL TO MOVE SWITCHMEN

Effort Now to Make Struggle of National Importance by Enlisting All Organized Labor.

Desperate efforts were made by the union leaders yesterday and last night to spread the stockyards strike until every industry even remotely connected with the packers was involved. Further, the aim of President Donnelly was to bring the struggle home to every person in Chicago, by shutting off, so far as possible, the city's meat supply. The immediate result of the latter move was a sharp advance in the price of "independent" meat.

After calling out the live stock handlers and the union butchers in the plants of the independent packers, President Donnelly made his crowning effort to rally all union labor to his cause. This was the sending of a telegram to President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor urging him to call a special meeting in Chicago of the executive board to take some action on the strike. This move is believed to presage an attempt to make the strike of national importance and to seek aid from every union man in the country as the miners did in Pennsylvania two years ago.

Switchmen Deaf to Appeal.

Then Donnelly turned to the switchmen employed at the yards and asked them not to handle cars shipped to or from the big packing plants. His appeal was denied by Grand Master Hawley and General Organizer J. P. Connor, who declared the men would continue to handle all cars given them. Not content with this, Donnelly called a meeting last night at Forty-seventh place and Halsted street, at which he made a final appeal to the rank and file of the unions involved to aid the butchers' cause.

At this meeting were representatives of the switchmen, the allied packing trades, Franklin union No. 4, and Typographical union No. 16. None would promise a sympathetic strike, however, while General Organizer J. P. Connor of the switchmen fought the plan vigorously.

Connor's Opposition Is Vigorous.

"I will fight this sympathy strike to a finish," he declared. "It would be the height of foolishness for my men to go out. There are only thirty of them, and their places immediately would be filled by men from the brotherhood of trainmen. I will expel any man from the union who walks out without a general order from the grand master."

Proposes New Organization.

In his talk to the allied trades President Donnelly reiterated his plan of forming a great industrial labor organization, dominated by the butcher workmen, if the strike were not ended soon.

"I will issue a letter to all the organizations working in the packing centers in all the cities," he said, "and bring them all under the dominance of the butchers' union. Thus an industrial organization would be formed which absolutely would control the packing trade.

"If this strike continues, and we are treated the way we have been, I will carry it into politics. There is an issue at stake here which can only be settled by the votes of the people."

At the close of the meeting it was admitted that there is small chance of the switchmen going out, but the printers and the teamsters will probably hold a meeting this morning and vote on the question.

Conference Follows Meeting.

After the meeting Organizer Connor and Donnelly had a long conference. They discussed a proposition made by Connor to the effect that the heads of the five brotherhoods of engineers, firemen, trainmen, switchmen, and conductors draft a modified proposition to the packers allowing the men to continue in their work and a peace committee be named to submit it to the packers. No decision was reached.

Other Cities Are Not Affected.

In spite of reports to the contrary no orders were issued last night to the union men in the independent houses in other cities to strike.

The Union Packing company in St. Louis will continue in operation, and the dozen or more small houses in New York City and Jersey City will not be effected at present. These are the two most important centers.

Declares He Has a New "Trick."

Donnelly called a massmeeting at Watita hall in the afternoon, at which he, Miss Mary McDowell, John Fitzpatrick, and others spoke. The union president told the men that this new move to spread the strike was only the beginning of a campaign which would put the packers to rout, and he appealed to his hearers to hold firm and stick with the union.

"I have a trick with a hole in it to show the packers yet, and we only have begun," he said. "The packers do not appear to be above breaking the law, and I want to tell them that we will obey the law only so long as they do, and not a moment longer."

Nicholas Gier of the butchers' union and other officers who are handling the funds of the strikers say they have plenty of money, and that even with the increased number of men on strike they would be able to take care of them all, and there would be no suffering. There were, however, no relief stations open during the day.

Seeks to Create Meat Famine.

The calling out of the butchers employed by the independent packers was with the avowed purpose on the part of Donnelly to create a meat famine in Chicago. He said he was in the fight to win, and that while he realized that the public would be put to some inconvenience it did not make any difference in the struggle so long as the strikers profited by it. Besides throwing nearly 1,500 more men out of employment, it would he said, be a blow to the independent packers and probably would result in their closing down until after the strike is over.

A delegation of independent packers called on Donnelly at strike headquarters in the afternoon to see what relief they could get, but were met with a refusal to modify the strike order. The president granted the workmen permission to kill all the cattle which the independent packers have on hand and to clean up the works, but after the pres-

Louise of Coburg Reported to Have Eloped Again.

ESCAPE AIDED BY AUTO.

Eldest Child of King Leopold Figures in New Scandal.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

VIENNA, Aug. 31.—A sensation was created here over the reported disappearance of Princess Louise of Coburg, daughter of King Leopold of Belgium, from Elster in Saxony, where she has been taking the waters for a fortnight. Her absence was discovered today when it was found that she had escaped by a window from her hotel.

It is believed the princess has been abducted by Lieut. Mattasich, the former officer of the Austrian army with whom she eloped some time ago.

Use Ladders and Auto to Escape.

The escape of the princess was accomplished in a mysterious and romantic manner, ladders and an automobile being brought into play to effect her release. Nothing is known beyond the fact that the princess and another guest of the hotel, believed to have been Mattasich, disappeared, and with them the jewels of the princess and an automobile.

Various surmises as to the destination of the princess are afloat, and it is said that orders have been given to watch the borders of Bavaria, Austria, France, and Switzerland.

Eldest Child of Leopold.

Princess Louise is the eldest child of Leopold, the gay king of Belgium. The union between Prince Philipp and Princess Louise was at the beginning a happy one, but the state of connubial bliss did not last long because, as Dr. Bachrach claims, the princess began to indulge in reckless expenditures for her wardrobe, in one instance ordering shoes which she could not have used in ten years.

This would have been borne with patience by Prince Philipp, who is rich, but in the season of 1896-'97, when the princely couple sojourned in the Riviera, the princess, then of the matronly age of 41, suddenly began to show an uncommon attachment for Lieut. Geza Mattasich-Keglevich, a Crote who served in the Austrian army, and whose acquaintance she made through her sister, the widow of Crown Prince Rudolph of Austria.

Princess Cuts Swath.

Such attachments are considered quite "chic," as modern European high society goes, and, being a daughter of the king of Belgium, society would have taken Princess Louise's fondness for the Sarmatian cavalier as a matter of course had it not been for the fact that the cavalier himself treated his relations with the princess quite too cavalierly.

Keglevich, who had nothing beyond his lieutenant's commission and his grand descent, first, prevailed upon the princess to start quite a stable and to make him a sort of master of the horse. Between him and Prince Philipp there was no official connection whatever.

Six years ago Princess Louise appeared in Carlsbad at the height of the season, and, as Dr. Bachrach says, her relations with Lieut. Keglevich had assumed a character which was incompatible with the matrimonial pledge. The princess indulged in the most extravagant expenditure of money in the Bohemian resort in which Keglevich joined with great zest. He took it upon himself, as chamberlain of the princess, to exact official calls from the notabilities at Carlsbad, and acted throughout as if he and not Prince Philipp was the lawful husband of Princess Louise. From Carlsbad the couple made journeys to Paris, Cannes, London, and Nice, spending money lavishly.

Finally, Prince Philipp, who is reported to be dense, could be no longer in doubt of the character of the relations between his wife and Keglevich, and he challenged the latter to a duel. The prince was severely wounded and was laid up for months.

At about this time came the discovery of drafts for enormous sums forged by Keglevich. The sister of Princess Louise, the Crown Princess Stefanie of Austria, was laid up with the grip which turned into pneumonia, and the life of the crown princess was despaired of. She was not permitted to attend to any business, and this was the cause of the discovery of the forged drafts.

While Princess Louise and Keglevich were having a gay time in Paris, Prince Philipp had found it advisable to advertise in the Paris newspapers that he would not be responsible for any debts created by his wife. Subsequently he announced that actual separation had taken place and that divorce would follow in due time. This, of course, ruined the credit of the eccentric princess, who has no money in her own right, and whose allowance by her royal father is not at all of royal munificence.

Loses Last Penny at Monte Carlo.

Keglevich, finding that his forgeries were discovered, fled with Princess Louise to Nice. At Monte Carlo the Croatian lost his last penny in a frantic attempt to retrieve his fortune. The couple then went to the estate of Keglevich's stepfather in Croatia and there the terms of a divorce were agreed upon.

Princess Louise returned to Vienna, but refused to return to the palace of Prince Philipp. She remained for some time in a sanitarium. Prince Philipp, rich though he is, has a lot of financial troubles on his hands on account of his erratic spouse that was. Princess Louise succeded in making debts to the amount of about 3,000,000 guilders (a guilder is about 40 cents) within two years. Of this amount Prince Philipp has assumed 1,000,000; the latter represent the claims of the shylocks.

HOLDUP IN A STORE.

Robbers Raid Pharmacy of A. Scherer, North State Street.

TAKE $32 AND A WATCH.

Clerk of Gas Company Shot During Raid on West Side Office.

The drug store of Andrew Scherer at North State and Division streets was raided last night by three robbers, the proprietor and his clerk, John Woods, were held up, and $32 and a watch taken. The men then escaped, running toward the lake.

It was 11:30 o'clock and many persons were passing on the street. Mr. Scherer was counting the money in the cash register and Woods was beginning to turn out the gaslights when the men entered. Before the clerk could look around two of the men had covered him with revolvers. The third man walked toward Mr. Scherer and when the latter turned around from the register he looked into a revolver.

The leader of the men said: "Make no outcry and you will not be shot."

Make a Thorough Search.

Scherer and his clerk were then marched to the back of the store and one man guarded them while the other two searched them. From Mr. Scherer they took a gold watch and some small change. From Woods they took a few cents and a bunch of keys.

From the drawers of the prescription counter the robbers took $19 worth of 2 cent stamps, while $40 was overlooked. Three dollars were taken from the register in the front of the store.

Gas Company Clerk Shot.

Three men entered the branch office of the People's Gaslight and Coke company at 255 Blue Island avenue shortly after noon and ordered the clerks, H. R. Jerome and R. R. Balcom, to hold up their hands. The employés grappled with the robbers, who fired, one bullet slightly wounding Jerome. The robbers then seized $4.50 and fled.

Several other robberies occurred on the west side. Sneak thieves took a $150 diamond ring from the desk of William Radcliffe, a grocer at 604 Van Buren street. Burglars entered the home of Philip Caruse, 302 Polk street, and stole clothing and jewelry valued at $150.

Pickpockets took a gold watch and chain valued at $75 from Warren D. Clark, 956 Warren avenue.

Wounded Man Disappears.

A man suffering apparently from a bullet wound was seen driving with two others over the Clybourn place bridge shortly after midnight yesterday morning. The trio stopped a man who was accompanied by two women and offered him money if he would direct them to the nearest hospital. The pedestrian offered to call an ambulance. The men begged him not to do that and whipped up their horse. The police are trying to solve the mystery.

After a chase of a quarter of a mile Detectives Reed and Wernicke of the Attrill street station captured three men who were later identified as those who held up and robbed F. K. Aughe, 1561 Milwaukee avenue, of $185 on Sunday morning. At the station they gave the names of Frank Thompson, 18 years old; Nathan Shippy, 17 years old; Joseph Schafer, 18 years old.

Hear Bank Robbery Is Planned.

Word was sent the Desplaines street police late in the night that robbers were planning to raid the Manufacturers' bank, Jackson boulevard and Clinton street. Two detectives guarded the building until morning.

In speaking of the many holdups Chief O'Neill said:

"The police force almost is paralyzed by the large number of patrolmen who have been taken off their beats in the last month for strike duty."

BULLETIN.

LIAOYANG, Aug. 31, evening.—The Russians have effected an advance along the railway to the southward.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Sept. 1, 3 a. m.—The terrific battle which began Tuesday raged all day Wednesday around Liaoyang, and reports from Russian sources claim victory for the Russians because it is asserted they have not been moved from their main position.

Firing Line of Seven Miles.

The fighting extended a line seven miles long and the cannonading was terrific. Along the road south of Liaoyang repeated bayonet advances were made by the Russians, while the Japanese shelled the Russian positions in the same vicinity.

War Balloons in Use.

From dispatches received it is inferred that both sides are using balloons for surveying the disposition of troops by the opposite side.

It was reported that the Japanese were getting around the Russian left flank, but no details of the movement came. Then came a late report that the Russians had advanced along the railway to the south.

Big Forces Engaged.

The Russian forces are estimated at 170,000 to 200,000, and the Japanese at 240,000. There are believed to be from 800 to 1,000 guns engaged on either side.

A belated dispatch from Tokio says the battle was indecisive.

Big Gap in Dispatches.

The dispatches from Liaoyang to St. Petersburg ceased yesterday afternoon, and the jubilation of the morning over Gen. Sakharoff's report of the earlier fighting gave way to a feeling of uneasiness.

It is concluded from the absence of positive claims from either side that the results of Wednesday's fighting were not decisive.

The Russians claim to have captured forty-six Japanese guns, but this is not officially confirmed.

The arrival of 200 Japanese prisoners inside the Russian lines is confirmed.

FIGHT RESUMED AT DAWN.

LIAOYANG, Aug. 31, 6:30 a. m.—The battle was resumed this morning earlier than it began yesterday. With the first gray of dawn the artillery opened, and the firing soon extended along the entire line. The rain ceased during the night, and day broke bright and clear. The Russians entered the fight confident of victory.

Japs Observe from Balloon.

As this dispatch is sent a balloon is ascending from one of the Japanese positions southeast of Liaoyang, making a target for the Russian mortar batteries, but the shells have not yet reached it.

The battle is still in progress, but the strength of the cannonade does not equal that of yesterday.

Over 300,000 men and 1,300 guns are engaged on both sides. Practically the whole Russian force is in the firing line.

One regiment which had just arrived from Russia went into action with its band playing.

Russians Using Bayonets.

The Russians made repeated bayonet advances on the road directly south of Liaoyang, where the Japanese approached from Sanquaiship and Tao, shelling the positions in the Russian lines until 4 in the afternoon, when the engagement, which was general throughout the south and southeast, narrowed to the main line.

The Japanese advance on the southeast was by way of the Fengwangcheng road. Immediately in front of Chiaodantun the Japanese stubbornly attempted to occupy a round topped hill, which was literally shaved by the Russian shells, making repeated attempts the entire day when apparently it was impossible for anything to live. The cannonading continued from this point to the vicinity of Wangpaotai until this evening without apparent advantage to either side.

Firing at Railroad Station.

The Japanese dropped shells within two or three miles of the railroad station and in the plain of Wentshu mountain, which is the most important eminence around Liaoyang, but the Japanese abandoned aggression there on account of the resistance they met. There was cannon fire last night and this is expected nightly.

The varied casualties here include one Russian war correspondent wounded and also twenty-five Chinese women from Chiaofantun, whom Dr. Westwater, the distinguished missionary, is caring for in the Chinese Red Cross refuge.

The day's developments show that the Russians are prepared for all emergencies.

Rain Makes Moving Difficult.

Slow rain began to fall at noon, gradually transforming the plain into a wilderness through which the wounded, in carts and walking, are tonight making their way to the hospitals. Considering the scale of the day's operations, the number of Russian wounded is apparently small, while the Japanese losses are believed to be great, especially where they were repulsed on the south road.

Chinese graves with trees are being leveled about Liaoyang in order not to interfere with the defense.

Developments are expected west and northeast.

JAPANESE ADVANCE BOLDLY.

[BY FRANCIS M'CULLAGH.]

LIAOYANG, Aug. 31, 5:30 p. m.—The Japanese appeared on the hills east and south of Liaoyang at 5 o'clock Tuesday morning. At 11 o'clock the Japanese infantry advanced boldly from the south on to Mount Shoushan and took some villages nine versts south of Liaoyang on the railway line.

From Shoushan it was seen the Russian shells did great execution. One pile of about a score of khaki clad Japanese corpses was the result of a single shell falling in front of Shoushan from the Russian trench. When this shell fell the Japanese infantry began firing. At 3 o'clock the Russians advanced on the Japanese from the west side of the hill, singing and hurrahing and with bands playing. The result is still undecided, a drizzling rain is falling, and the ground is wet.

Liaoyang Hard Pressed.

The Japanese are pressing hard on the east of Liaoyang. The Russians are using a balloon to ascertain the Japanese positions.

The Chinese in Liaoyang are much excited, business is suspended, and the streets are filled with people coming from the country with children and valuables. The Chinese merchants have organized a police force.

The Japanese attacking the trench in front of Shoushan were reinforced four times, but the trench was not taken at 6 in the evening.

BATTLE MUST BE DECISIVE.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 1, 3 a. m.—With the knowledge that the Russian and Japanese armies about Liaoyang are locked in a death struggle, the tension in St. Petersburg tonight is strained to the utmost. It is believed here that the fight cannot stop short of the crushing defeat of one side or the other.

All reports so far are favorable to the Russians, though the suspension of all news for many hours has been exceedingly trying and has given rise to several rumors, tempering the earlier enthusiasm.

Claims Telegraph Is Working.

It is stated officially, however, that the report that the railway and the telegraph have been cut north of Liaoyang is untrue.

Crisis of Battle Yet to Come.

The highest military authorities here consider that the most critical stage of the battle has not yet been reached, and they believe that the fight may continue for some time before either side acknowledges defeat. This is an important consideration by the light of which to interpret any immedidate news.

It is thought here that in view of the numbers engaged he desperateness of the assaults, and the length of the line, about seven miles, the losses in the two days' fighting cannot fall short of 10,000 on each side. Both sides are straining every nerve, realizing that the fortunes of war for a whole year are in the scale, and neither side is in the mood or the position to spare men in the effort to achieve a final victory.

The battle of Liaoyang will probably rank as one of the great sanguinary battles of history.

Take 200 Japanese Prisoners.

In the preliminary fighting of Monday the Russians captured 200 prisoners, who have already arrived at Harbin, and report persists that they captured over forty Japanese guns yesterday.

The Japanese on Wednesday morning attacked three sides of the Russian position. One correspondent also mentions a Japanese movement to the northeast of Liaoyang, showing that the Japanese were undoubtedly trying to work around Kouropatkin's rear.

Remarkable Show of Endurance.

One of the surprising phases of the situation is the endurance of the men. They have been engaged desperately for two days, after more or less severe fighting under unfavorable conditions, every day since Aug. 24. It would seem that human endurance could not persist much longer without respite of some sort.

The Japanese are using balloons to locate the Russian guns and trenches. One of the Russian correspondent's points out that the Japanese sent up a balloon shortly after daylight to the southeast of Liaoyang.

Japanese Using Mortars.

The Japanese are reported to be using mortars to drop shells in the Russian positions. These are probably the high angle fire howitzers which were reported in action earlier in the week.

It is plain, however, that the Japanese are no longer enjoying the superiority in artillery which stood them in such good stead in the earlier months of the war. It was then hill fighting, and the Japanese mountain batteries, in which arms the Russians were deficient, told with deadly effect. Now the contest is in a comparatively open country, where both the Russian field guns and the Russian cavalry can come into more effective use.

A dispatch from Mukden this afternoon says it is reported there that Gen. Samsonoff has captured two Japanese battalions.

FAIL TO TAKE RUSSIAN GUNS.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 31, 9:35 p. m.—A Russian correspondent says that yesterday two regiments of Japanese at daybreak attempted to capture the batteries of the Sixth artillery brigade, located on the extreme left flank of the Russian army. The attempt was only discovered in the nick of time.

Some of the Russian troops fought continuously for thirty-six hours.

The concussion and the roar of the guns shook the windows at Liaoyang, though the artillery was six to eight miles away.

Japs Fight Like Mad Men.

Nemirovich Danchenko, the famous Russian war correspondent, describing the battle, says:

"The enemy, drunk with their former successes, attacked from three sides like madmen. When they were hurled back fresh troops, of which they seemed to have an inexhaustible supply, were sent forward."

M. Danchenko says the combatants had about 600 guns on each side and adds:

"It was our first victory. The enemy was beaten back everywhere, many of his batteries were destroyed, and in some cases his infantry was put to rout.

"The losses cannot yet be computed, but they have been great everywhere, especially among the artillerymen. For instance, in the First artillery brigade every officer was either killed or wounded, and some of the guns were silenced absolutely owing to the death of all the gun crew."

REPORTS ON TUESDAY'S FIGHT.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 31.—Lieut. Gen. Sakharoff, telegraphing to the general staff on the conclusion of yesterday's sixteen hours of fighting around Liaoyang, estimates that the Russian casualties throughout the day were 3,000.

The battle ended at 9 o'clock last night when many positions occupied by the Japanese were retaken and again held by the Russians.

Report of Gen. Sakharoff.

The report from Lieut. Gen. Sakharoff is as follows:

"From 5 o'clock this morning until 9 tonight the Japanese forces attacked our front at positions before Liaoyang and on the left bank of the Taitse river. Both their artillery and rifle fire were intense. Their main efforts were directed against our center positions and left flank, but numerous attacks were repulsed along the whole line. Our troops made several counter attacks, culminating in bayonet fighting.

"Many positions which had been occupied by the Japanese were retaken at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. During the artillery attack out batteries did effective work. About 4 this afternoon the enemy was observed attempting to turn our right flank with considerable forces, but several battalions of reserves advanced and, after a fierce engagement, checked the Japanese and compelled then to retire. The battle continued until after dark and only ended at 9 o'clock.

Troops in Good Spirits.

"The spirit of our troops is excellent and the men are rejoiced over the news of the heroic behavior of the garrison at Port Arthur, the repulsing of Japanese attacks upon which has been communicated to them.

"Our casualties today have been considerable, reaching about 3,000. The Japanese losses must have been heavy."

No attempt was made by Lieut. Gen. Sakharoff in his report to estimate the Japanese losses, except to say that they were extremely heavy, and the Russian losses were only approximated at 3,000. No Russian general officers fell.

Gen. Kouropatkin's forces occupied positions forming a semi-circle about Liaoyang, the flanks resting on the Taitse river, east and west of the city.

Battle in Two Periods.

The battle divided itself into two periods. After a preliminary bombardment of the Russian lines on the right and center, the Japanese infantry advanced to the attack, charging the Russian center. Although repeatedly checked, they came on with bulldog tenacity, hurling themselves against the Russian positions with the bayonet. There were many bloody hand to hand encounters. By noon the Japanese actually succeeded in occupying a portion of the Russian trenches. Then Gen. Kouropatkin sent forward some reserves, delivering a series of counter attacks, recaptured the lost positions, and drove back the Japanese all along the line.

The attack on the center having failed, the second half of the fight began at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when the Japanese tried to turn and roll up the Russian right. Here also they failed, but only after a desperate struggle, which was continued until 9 o'clock at night. Reserves dispatched in time by Gen. Kouropatkin at last succeeded not only in checking the Japanese but in enveloping and driving them back in confusion.

SUPPLY SHIP HELD AT CHEFOO.

Steamer Independent, Carrying Food to Newchwang, Stopped by Chinese Customs Officer.

CHEFOO, Aug. 31, 4 p. m.—The steamship Independent, under charter to the Oskala Steamship company to carry food from Japan to Newchwang, has been held here by the Chefoo commissioner of customs. The Independent put into this port to discharge passengers and local freight.

The commissioner of customs, on his side, has referred the matter to Sir Robert Hart, chief of the Chinese maritime customs service, whose ruling will establish a precedent.

Pending a decision of the case, the Independent will remain here with its cargo on board.

Notwithstanding official denials there is every reason to believe that the Independent carried a large sum of money, the maximum estimate upon which is $5,000,000, destined to pay Gen. Kuroki's army.

A Japanese torpedo boat destroyer arrived here last night at 10 o'clock, having come over at top speed from Port Dalny, and at once took on board all the money on Independent with the exception of $15,000. The destroyer then left.

CZAR IS TOLD GOOD NEWS.

RUSSIANS MAKE MOST OF SAKHAROFF'S REPORTS.

Dispatches to Emperor Declare His Armies at Liaoyang Have Repulsed the Japanese on Every Hand—Press of St. Petersburg Agrees That Critical Point in War Is at Hand—Friends of Kouropatkin Assert He Is Vindicated.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]
[Copyright: 1904: By the New York Herald.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 31.—On the return of the emperor early this morning members of his party announced that he had received a report from Gen. Stoessel that the enemy had been driven back from Port Arthur with heavy loss.

The situation in the garrison was said to be excellent, the only trouble being the poisoning of the air, which was described as terrible, resulting from the masses of decomposition and unburied Japanese corpses.

Simultaneously from Liaoyang the czar, it is said, received a dispatch announcing that every Japanese attack was being repulsed and in some cases the Russians were pursuing the enemy. At the latter place, it was said, the Japanese were persistently pushing forward and the Russians were accepting battle.

Hears of All Day Fight.

The violent artillery fire lasted from 5 yesterday morning till 9 in the evening to the intense alarm of the Chinese, who deserted the streets and hid themselves when the shells began to fall into the town. During the day the battle extended and the attack was pushed so freely that the Thirty-third Russian regiment came to the use of bayonets. One Japanese battery was wiped out. Great numbers of wounded men were coming into town, and were immediately entrained and sent to Harbin.

Trains were coming in with reinforcements and ammunition. The Japanese, it is said, are showering shrapnel from a hill commanding the railroad. The opinion of Russian authorities is that this engagement may last a week at least.

Comment of Russian Press.

The Invalid says: "Behind our outposts the enemy will encounter our main Manchurian army, and even if they take the outlying posts, which are of no strategic importance, they will be obliged to storm the main position."

The Official Viestnik says: "Liaoyang has become the scene of a terrible sanguinary episode, but everything is ready. Today's fighting is merely the prelude to the real battle, which will follow immediately."

The Novoe Vremya in a tone of alarm says: "Attention is now focused on Liaoyang."

The Russ declares: "The historical moment has arrived. The truth is that public sentiment is now aroused more than at any time since the commencement of the war."

Streets Flooded with Extras.

Men and boys flood the streets with extras, crying "Big battle; great losses," and are selling endless special bulletins, in which the news is exceedingly meager. The newspapers all print plans of Liaoyang.

The bourse takes an optimistic view of the situation, 4 per cents have gone up ⅝.

The grand duke Boris has returned after a long interview with the emperor. He will receive the cross of St. George.

PRAISE KOUROPATKIN'S TACTICS.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 31.—Gen. Sakharoff's dispatch announcing the repulse of the Japanese at all points on Aug. 30 was promptly published in special editions of the government Messenger and telegraphed throughout the empire. Naturally it was received with optimistic satisfaction in military and official quarters. Everywhere it is accepted by all except Gen. Kouropatkin's opponents as evidence of his strategy receiving complete vindication.

Nothing has shaken the faith of the commander in chief's adherents and admirers in his plan of campaign. All the retreats and checks over which the foreign and pro-Japanese press exulted are dismissed as of small importance compared to the steady, resistless maturing of Gen. Kouropatkin's tactics which it is believed are about to be signally justified.

The general staff was aware he had been elaborately preparing his defenses for months, while the troops have been arriving in ever growing numbers. When the Tenth and Seventeenth army corps reached him he finally chose his own battleground, where he was prepared to meet the enemy's atttack.

Military authorities await the outcome with confidence.

SHOULD BE A WAY TO END WAR.

Senator Cullom, Chairman of Committee on Foreign Relations, Makes Significant Declaration.

Freeport, Ill., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Senator Cullom, who delivered the principal address at the reunion of old settlers of Stephenson county today, argued that there should be some recognized means of interference to end the war between Russia and Japan.

Under present conditions, he declared, if this nation or any other should interfere in the interest of peace it would itself become involved in the struggle and would accomplish nothing.

As Senator Cullom is chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations, his remarks are regarded as significant.

REPORT CAPTURE OF RUSSIANS.

Japanese Said to Have Headed Off Junk on Which They Were Trying to Reach Port Arthur.

CHEFOO, Aug. 31, 10 p. m.—It is reported here upon good authority that the Japanese have captured some Russian officers bound for Port Arthur with important papers. These officers left Mukden and attempted to get into Port Arthur by junk. For some time a Japanese torpedo boat has been at sea watching for this junk, and, according to the report, it overtook it at 1 o'clock this morning and took the officers, the papers, and the junk into Port Dalny.

REPORT OF BRILLIANT ATTACK BY JUNKS FROM SEASIDE.

Are Said to Have Taken Two Forts and Mounted Small Guns Upon Them—Russians Retire Behind Hastily Constructed Defenses—Garrison Almost Exhausted, While Assailants Are Constantly Bringing Up Fresh Men.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Sept. 1, 3 a. m.—The Telegraph in a second edition prints a dispatch from Chefoo which states that Chinese who left Port Arthur two days ago passed through the Japanese lines in Kinchow bay. They say the Japanese, after four days of heavy bombardment from the sea, suddenly landed a force from junks and captured two coast forts at Kwang and Kinshan, east of Tiger's Tail entrance and three-quarters of a mile from the town.

The Russian garrison was small, a majority of the men being engaged in bringing supplies to the forts, which previously had been damaged by shells. The Japanese were only able to mount small guns.

Russians Improvise Fort.

The Russians retired beyond a hastily constructed wall of heavy timbers with steel plates and are stubbornly defending the road to the town.

A small fort farther west also has been captured. Reinforcements have been landed from rafts at Iantshan, where heavy fighting is in progress. The Russians have recaptured Itshan and are holding their own at Palichwang, from which the Japanese have been driven.

The bombardment of Tiger's Tail is proceeding. The assault from the sea and the west is being vigorously pressed. The town is like a city of the dead. Shops are closed and people live in bombproof shelters. The hospitals are filled and the supply of drugs is short. One firm alone possesses all the flour. The troops are extremely weary. The Japanese, on the other hand, have the advantage of having reserves.

The Chinese are striving to leave by wholesale. All those who speak Russian are captured by Japanese, whose officers say they regret any Chinese remain in the town, as they probably will be killed accidentally while the fighting is in progress.

Japs Crowd Inner Line.

The latest previous reports place the Japanese advanced positions at Port Arthur thus:

East, fort No. 5; north, Palichang; and west, Hukiaton and Yangtowang.

The Japanese have destroyed the fort at Tungkaitashan and placed guns on the adjoining hill.

Guns Being Mounted in Congo Dependency on Lake Tanganyika, Opposite the Kaiser's Colony—Negotiations of an Official Character Said to Be Going On Between Brussels and Berlin—Many Difficulties to Contend With.

CAPE TOWN, Aug. 31.—Official information from British Central Africa says that the Congo Free State is constructing concealed forts of considerable magnitude on the western shore of Lake Tanganyika, and that one of these forts, which is equipped with twenty guns, is within two hours of the German frontier.

It is believed that the Belgians apprehend a German invasion. A number of natives who are German subjects have been expelled from the Congo Free State.

It is understood that negotiations regarding the matter are now proceeding between Berlin and Brussels.

The west shore of Lake Tanganyika belongs to the Congo Free State, the south shore to British Central Africa, and the east shore to German East Africa.

ORANGEMEN BAD, BUT STILL IRISH.

John Redmond Tells National League Ireland Cannot Afford to Lose Them.

SPEECH CAUSES A STIR.

John F. Finerty of Chicago Is Again Elected President by Acclamation.

New York, Aug. 31.—[Special.]—The feature of the night session of the United Irish league today was a speech by John Redmond. In the course of his address Mr. Redmond referred to those who disagreed with his views. He was interrupted by a voice crying out: "To —— with the Clan-na-Gael and the Orangemen."

There was great confusion at once, but Mr. Redmond retorted:

"To —— with no honest Irishman. My friend says 'To —— with the Clan-na-Gael.' Far be it from me to tolerate such an expression. The Orangemen are Irishmen—mistaken Irishmen—I think, but still Irishmen. Shall we drive them from Ireland? I say no. Educate them. Parnell said that Ireland could not afford to lose a single son and that is true today."

During the day session a good deal of feeling was aroused over the duty of New York toward the Irish cause, some holding that the state was not doing its share in proportion to its population.

Claim Right to Fight.

The platform adopted by the convention, after renewing the pledge of the league's allegiance to the cause of Irish national independence, the right of Ireland to have a parliament of her own, says:

> We assert the right of the Irish people to procure their independence by any honorable method, by work or word, by voice or sword, as circumstances may dictate or opportunities may offer, but we fully admit the right to choose their weapons in the battle for liberty, untrammeled by dictation from any outside source, realizing that the people on the firing line of the fight for nationhood are the best judges of the policy to be adopted in their struggle with the wealth and power of England.

Finerty Elected President.

The league unanimously elected the following officers:

President—John F. Finerty, Chicago.
First vice president—Patrick Egan, New York.
Second vice president—Edward S. Devoy, St. Louis.
Third vice president—Michael J. Redding, Baltimore.
Fourth vice president—John Fitzpatrick, New Orleans.
National secretary—John O'Callahan, Boston.
National treasurer—T. B. Fitzpatrick, New York.

Contributions in Sight.

A member of the committee of ways and means read a report from the committee in which it was stated that it is the intention of this committee to raise $50,000 before the first of next year for the general election fund, to be used in England and Ireland.

Michael J. Curry, the New York member of the committee, told the convention that New York will contribute $10,000 toward the fund.

Chairman Finerty announced that Charles F. Murphy, the Tammany leader, had promised to give $1,000 to the fund.

A resolution increasing the national committee from fifty members to 100 was lost by four votes. During the discussion of the resolution the debate grew exceedingly warm.

Heated Debate Started.

John F. Ryan of Philadelphia, speaking for the Pennsylvania delegation, argued that New York should not have any more representation on the national committee than any other state. He said the New York branch of the league had not contributed as much to the common fund as it ought to have done considering its size, there being more Irishmen in New York than in the city of Dublin.

During the discussion the convention was in an uproar, and it was some time before Chairman Finerty was able to restore order.

This document, he says, was executed recently, but he refuses to say whether he has it with him or whether he has placed it in a safety deposit vault. An unsigned will was found.

Rumors of New Heirs.

From San Francisco came another story. Alexander McBean, nephew of Mrs. Effey, a niece of Mrs. McVicker, gave out a telegram which he said he had received from his aunt in Pasadena. It was:

> Clara (her sister, Mrs. Sarah B. Game) and I are the only legal heirs. We are held responsible for body.

They will leave for Chicago with the body this evening. City Chemist Day of Los Angeles began an analysis of the contents of the stomach.

Finds an Unsigned Will.

The unsigned will was found by Public Administrator McGarvin, who took charge of the contents of a safety deposit vault in a Los Angeles bank. He also secured memoranda of cash deposits of $240,000 and jewelry valued at several thousand dollars. Nothing was missing.

The unsigned will was in Dr. Zeigler's writing, it was declared. Neither he nor Horace McVicker was mentioned as a beneficiary, although "a California recipient" was named for $30,000. Dr. Zeigler refused to say whether or not he intended to have his name substituted for the designation.

The draft of the will was as follows:

> Pasadena, Cal., Aug. 6, 1904.—Clara Game is to receive my house and lot at 1842 Michigan avenue, Chicago, and to receive immediately in addition to the above property $50,000, to be held in trust until the death of her husband. The certificate is to be held by the bank, and the interest is to be delivered to Mrs. Game each year. She is also to receive after all the other beneficiaries herein named have received the amounts which I herein specify for them, and after all indebtedness against my estate has been settled, all the money and personal property left after my decease, to be held in trust until the death of her husband, when she shall become full beneficiary of what remains. J. W. Owen is to receive $5,000, a California recipient is to have $30,000, the Rev. W. F. Black is to receive $4,000, and Mr. and Mrs. Lindner are to receive $5,000.

Attempt Secretly to File Will.

Action in Chicago consisted of an attempt secretly to file the will of Mrs. McVicker, which was found in a Chicago safety deposit vault. L. D. Condee, attorney for McVicker, refused, however, to file the will for probate. John D. Casey, assistant to the probate judge, had declined to permit the instrument to be kept secret when filed. Mr. Condee stated to the court that he represented the interests of Horace McVicker, the stepson. McVicker, Miss Jennie Boydston of Sterling, Ill., a cousin of the testatrix, and Mrs. Game of San Francisco were said to be named as beneficiaries.

Try to Keep Will Secret.

The attempt to file the will and impound it under seal was made as quietly as possible. At 3 o'clock Mr. McVicker, Miss Boydston, Attorney Condee, Attorney Elbert Ferguson, representing Mrs. Game; Attorney McKenzie, representing Public Administrator Strong; and Attorney Max Baird, representing the Illinois Trust and Savings bank, executors, appeared at the Probate court. Attorney Condee acted as spokesman. As he was about to address the court he discovered a dozen spectators.

"I cannot transact business with these persons present," declared Condee. "We do not desire that the contents of this will be made public at the present time."

Then he appealed to the court.

"This is a public court," said Mr Casey.

"Will you adjourn to chambers and discuss the matter with us?" asked Attorney Condee.

"If it is a matter of official business I will not," replied Mr. Casey, "but if it is for a private conference I will join you in a few minutes."

"It is not official business," said Condee, "but a question as to whether it shall be made official business or not."

"They wanted me to permit the will to be filed and then impounded," explained Mr. Casey later. "I told them I would do no such thing, and would leave the matter entirely to Judge Cutting, who will return to Chicago Friday morning."

Fear of Zeigler Hinted At.

It was hinted that fear lest Dr. Zeigler would take some action following the publication of the will had influenced the attorneys.

Miss Boydston was placed on the stand to prove heirship. She said she was a first cousin of Mrs. McVicker, and revealed the fact that several cousins of Mrs. McVicker live in Melbourne, Australia. This may lead to a delay of at least thirty days before the hearing of the case.

PARADE OF 1,000 BABIES SEEN IN GARFIELD PARK.

Great Throng of Women and Children Attracted to West Madison Street Carnival to Look On or Compete.

Garfield park was transformed yesterday to a veritable "babyland." The baby show of the West Madison street carnival was on, and the reign of Queen Lucille was almost suspended.

Long before the parade was formed, anxious parents, tugging prospective blue ribbon winners, thronged the approach to the throne in the park, and by 3 o'clock 20,000 women and children, with a small scattering of men, were lined up along the line of march. After a long wait the seven sections were started. The queen and her court led the way, followed by over 1,000 children, ranging from babies in arms to the lusty sons of Chicago's firemen.

The firemen's exhibition was the feature of the parade. Two hundred strong they came, some in tired mother's arms, some in jangling patrol wagons, and some in gaudy floats. There was a miniature fire engine giving out real smoke, and a hook and ladder truck drawn by goats.

There were three judges for each section, and over forty prizes to award. Out of the multitude the judges were to pick the prettiest baby boy and girl each unde 1 year; the prettiest over 1 year; the fattest, the youngest, the best natured, and the noisiest.

Then the most beautifully decorated go-cart and carriage must be decided upon, the finest set of twins under 1 year, and over 1 year, and last, but not least, the finest set of triplets.

An automobile parade was the feature of the carnival program in the evening. Jerome A. Ellis won the first prize; Carl D. Kinsey, second; and John Farson, third. The prizes were a cup for first place, a phonograph for second, and a case of whisky for third.

Miss Ada Robinson, Stenographer, Accused by Chicago Physician, Takes Troubles Lightly.

Binghamton, N. Y., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Miss Ada Robinson, a stenographer, who is under bail to appear in a police court on Friday and answer a charge of grand larceny, preferred by Dr. Albert V. Reid of Chicago, was married today to a man who gave his name as George F. Lauer of New York. They left for New York at once.

Dr. Reid says he became acquainted with Miss Robinson through a matrimonial agency and gave up a valuable practice in Chicago as a veterinary surgeon intending to marry her and locate here, believing her to be wealthy.

Although the complaint in the police court alleges she secured $40 from him, Reid says that it does not represent a tenth of the amount he gave her.

STORY OF TRACTION DEAL NOT CREDITED IN NEW YORK.

Walter G. Oakman Says Nothing Will Be Done Until Courts Settle Ninety-nine Year Controversy.

New York, Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Walter G. Oakman, chairman of the protective committee of Chicago Union Traction stockholders, when seen today regarding the possible consolidation of the Chicago street railway lines, said:

"About any immediate consolidation of the City and Union Traction companies at this time I know nothing, but such a consolidation would be the natural outcome of the present situation and I think it eventually will happen. But at present I am sure nothing will be done until a final decision has been rendered by the courts in suits over the validity of the ninety-nine year franchises.

"Already the courts have rendered so many opinions in favor of the company that it feels perfectly secure regarding the outcome, but I am sure nothing will be done in the way of consolidation at once."

President Roach of the Union Traction company was in this city closeted all day with the firm of H. B. Hollins & Co. He was asked regarding the consolidation story, but he could say nothing. R. R. Govin of H. B. Hollins & Co. said:

"If there were any truth in the story I certainly would know it, and I do not."

It was learned from other sources that while the financing of the merger of the two properties will not be undertaken immediately, it eventually will be in the hands of a syndicate of bankers of this city, among whom H. B. Hollins & Co. and Speyer & Co. will hold a prominent place.

IS COOLEST ON RECORD.

CHICAGO'S 1904 SUMMER ECLIPSES ALL TEMPERATURE FIGURES.

Mhrk Is Reached 1.4 Degrees Below the Normal for the Thirty-three Years Preceding—August Is Distinguished with an Average of 67¾ Degrees—Present Conditions Are Attributed by the Weather Forecaster to the Exceptionally Cold Winter.

Chicago's summer for 1904, which, practically speaking, ended yesterday, was just what might have been expected of the champion summer resort of the country. The city outdid itself in the matter of low temperatures, according to computations made by the local weather man, and established a new record for the summer months of 1.4 degrees less than the normal for thirty-three years preceding.

The city also broke all records for the month of August, with a mean temperature of 67¾ degrees. The best previous record was made in 1890, when the average reading was 68 degrees. That was considered a master stroke by the experts, but the capability of Chicago then had not been realized.

"Chicago has not had a hot summer since 1901, when it followed the example set by other cities all over the country and broke the record for torridity," said Forecaster Cox last night. "The two summers following were remarkably cool, although they cannot compare with this one.

Early Cold Is Accountable.

"Present conditions are to be accounted for by the exceeding cold weather that Chicago experienced the first part of this year. It is a common belief that a cold winter is followed by a hot summer, but this is a fallacy. In the case of Chicago it will take a long time for Lake Michigan to reach its usual summer temperature after the chill it was given last winter. It must be considered that it was the coldest in the history of the weather bureau. It appears that the year 1904 at Chicago is destined to smash the weather records both for winter and summer.

"It is not probable that the temperature for September will be much higher, if at all, than during August."

Few Hot Days in the Summer.

There were few hot days in Chicago during either August or the entire summer, the maximum temperature for the month being 90 degrees, while the minimum, noted Aug. 8, was fourteen degrees below the normal. Other points along Lake Michigan also enjoyed cool weather, although not so uniformly.

COURT DECIDES 2,500 ARE GUILTY

Retail Druggists' Association and Members Are Held in Contempt.

BIG FINES ARE IMPOSED.

Ruling Ends Long Fight Made by Dealer Who Found He Was Blacklisted.

Judge Dunne yesterday held that nearly 2,500 retail druggists in the United States were guilty of contempt of court. They are members of the National Association of Retail Druggists, and a fine of $2,000 was imposed on the organization.

Its secretary, Thomas V. Wooten, was assessed $500. Five wholesalers, also charged with contempt, were given until the fall term of court to prepare an explanation.

The druggists, their organization, and the five wholesalers were charged with violating an injunction secured in November, 1902, by Isaac Platt, a retailer at 809 South Ashland avenue, restraining them from interfering with the securing of his supplies. He was at outs with the national association because he had refused to become a member. Platt declared he was "blacklisted" and appealed to the court.

The decision, it was declared by retailers, might have the effect of lowering the price of drugs by making it easy for the "cut rate" druggists to obtain supplies.

Court Denounces Combination.

"Platt has been deprived of the right in this community to sell goods," said Judge Dunne in fining the druggists. "Nothing can be more clear. It is a combination which has prevented him from securing supplies. It may not have come within the limits of the anti-trust law, but the fact remains that the courts enjoined the defendants from carrying out the scheme which would prevent him from securing goods.

"Wooten testified that the organization was formed for the purpose of maintaining prices of drugs in the retail stores. He told of many laudable objects of the organization, and I have no doubt that it is composed of good citizens who have united together as a method to prevent the cutting of prices and to protect themselves in this way. Of course, they have a right to guard their interests, but the public, on the other hand, has a right also to protect itself.

"The acts of the organization and Wooten have had the effect of preventing Platt from securing goods, and I consider it a violation of the letter and spirit of the injunction."

Ends Long Fight in Court.

Platt alleged that he was boycotted by the association and through its influence all the wholesale houses in Chicago refused to sell him supplies. The defense was that Platt, whose store is at 809 South Ashland avenue, was attempting to sell the goods at wholesale, thus cutting the prices. He fought the association during two years in the courts.

EATS NOTHING BUT GRASS AND SAYS IT CURED HIM.

Spaniard in New York Has Found His Food in the Park for Six Months and Insists He Likes It.

New York, Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Señor Eusebio Santos, a Spaniard living in Brooklyn, thrives on a diet of grass alone—just plain, ordinary grass, which he plucks in the park with his own hands. His only drink is water.

His story is corroborated by the people with whom he lives. He himself accentuated his tale by eating about a quart of fresh grass for the "gentlemen of the press" out of a two quart soup tureen.

"Señor," he said in Spanish, taking a mouthful of what remained in the large tureen, "I am a Spaniard. I went to Cuba from Spain fifteen years ago. Before I was long in the island my health gave out.

"'Starve yourself,' said my physician. 'Eat potatoes,' said he; 'eat potatoes.' I grew sick of potatoes. 'Then chew grass,' said the doctor; 'nice clean grass, and drink water.'

"So for six months my diet has been nothing but grass. Now I am in perfect physical condition. I never ail, I feel strong, and warm, and fresh, and I have forgotten what it is to have a headache."

OUT OF WORK, PARK HER HOME

Stenographer Arrested in New York Says She Is a College Graduate.

PLUCKED FROM A FENDER

Girl When Struck Caroms Into a Policeman's Arms and Is Not Injured.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE
New York, Aug. 31.

College Girl, Out of Money, Lives in Park.

A group of indignant women complained to a mounted policeman in Central park this evening that a young woman was behaving most improperly near the Eighty-fifth street entrance. The policeman found a nice looking girl sitting on a bench eating a banana and some crackers, and, not considering that improper, left her alone.

The same women, more indignant than ever, stopped the policeman in another part of his beat and hustled him back to the girl. This time he found her sitting with her skirts wrapped around her head, and arrested her.

"I'm Hattie Barnes, and I'm 23," said the girl in answer to questions by the sergeant at the arsenal. "My residence? I live in the park. I've lived there three days. I'm a boarding school girl, a college graduate, and a good stenographer, but I can't get work, so I couldn't do anything else."

She had not been drinking nor did her mind appear affected. As a solution of the problem what to do with her the police locked her up on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Fifteen members of the Italian parliament who came here to attend the international parliamentary peace conference, to be held in St. Louis next week, arrived today on the Liguria from Genoa and Naples. The party is headed by Prince Odescolchi, Marquis San Guiliano, and Marquis Compans.

Policeman Risks His Life to Save Girl.

Daisy Bunnell, the 9 year old daughter of Policeman Charles Bunnell, who lives in Jersey City, was struck by a fender of a trolley car in that city today and tossed five feet in the air. Policeman Edward Barry jumped between the rails and caught her in his arms as she fell. Barry sprang off the track with his burden as the car passed by. The side of the fender bumped against his leg, bruising it a little. The girl was not hurt.

Representatives of the elevated railroad motormen had a five hour conference with August Belmont at the latter's office today over the question of wages and hours of motormen on the subway. The meeting substantially was without result. The only definite conclusion reached was to hold another conference. At the end of the discussion Mr. Belmont said that he expected a satisfactory settlement.

Baffled by Long Island Murder Mystery.

The police of Glendale, L. I., are investigating a mysterious murder full of contradictory and baffling features. John Deikler, a contractor, was shot late last night not far from his home and died soon afterward. It was at first believed that the murderer was a highwayman.

Later the theory gained current belief that Deikler was killed as the result of a quarrel with a stranger, with whom he engaged in a heated political discussion. A third theory was that Deikler may have been shot by Augustus F. Pflander, who was found in a barn near where Deikler was shot, unconscious from a bullet wound in his temple and with two empty chambers in his revolver.

Henry Adicks, a neighbor, who was attracted by the shooting, and who declared the murderer was a highwayman, was detained as a witness. He said that during the pursuit, when he fired at the highwayman, the latter turned and shouted: "Henry, you will be the next if you don't stop that." Adicks says he has no idea who the man was.

30,000 Men at Work in Canal Zone.

Col. W. C. Gorgas of the medical department, United States army, chief sanitary officer of the Panama canal zone, who arrived today from the isthmus, said that the work of improving the sanitary conditions in the canal belt is progressing rapidly. "Quarantine stations have been placed at both ends of the canal route to prevent the spread of yellow fever and the plague," he said.

"We are having sewers built," he continued, "and are covering up all water as much as possible. A large force of men is employed killing mosquitoes and gangs are filling up the swamps.

"We have about 30,000 men on our pay roll, about nine-tenths of whom are from Jamaica. We find they do better work and stand the climate better than the natives."

Slocum Relief Committee Reports.

The report of the committee for relief of survivors of the General Slocum disaster shows that 958 bodies have been recovered and that $109,543 was collected and expended. Of 590 families who lost one or more members by the disaster 437 received aid, and provision was made for the permanent care of many of these. Twenty thousand dollars has been put aside for this purpose. One hundred and twenty men lost their entire families in the disaster, and in twelve families twenty-seven children were left orphans.

Habeas Corpus Writ for Nan Patterson.

A writ of habeas corpus for Nan Patterson, who is under indictment on a charge of murdering Cæsar Young last June, was granted today. The writ, which is returnable tomorrow, orders the warden of the Tombs to produce Mrs. Patterson in the Supreme court at that time, when her counsel will ask for her discharge on the ground that there is no evidence that she committed the crime charged against her. If this is denied application will be made that she be admitted to bail.

PARKER AT COUNTY FAIR.

MINGLES WITH NEIGHBORS AND SHAKES 933 HANDS.

But Some of the Hands, According to a Sarcastic Farmer's Wife, Belonged to Republican Women Who "Butted In" Most Impudently—Approves of the Exhibits, but Refuses to Raise Race Issue by Throwing Baseball at a Senegambian's Head.

Ellenville, N. Y., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—The democratic candidate for president shook 933 assorted hands at the Ulster county fair here today and departed amid the cheers of the faithful, leaving the merry go round safe, the farm products sane, and the hot dogs sound.

The candidate left Rosemount at 10 o'clock this morning with Mrs. Parker and Fred H. Parker, his brother. They drove to Esopus station, where they boarded a train for Kingston. As the candidate's itinerary had been published widely there was no small crowd at the Kingston station, but it forbore to cheer.

Buzzed by Politicians.

Proceeding to the New York, Ontario and Western station the party boarded a special train for Ellenville. During his trip the candidate was buzzed by small fry politicians, but his campaign smile became irremovable. He listened blandly to the wildest predictions, and sat unwinkingly before the most excited gestures of worthies who vow they will carry Ulster county for him or never shave again.

The train stopped for several minutes at Accord, half way to the fair. It was at Accord that Mr. Parker taught school and won his wife. Many Accordeons were out to see the candidate, for they are proud of him.

Ellenville Dresses Up.

Ellenville was all dressed up in honor of the day, but the decorations were bi-partisan, for when the democrats put out their Parker lithographs the republicans became hostile and hung their houses with pictures of Roosevelt.

Catskill boarders drove into town by hundreds, and of course all loyal farmers brought their wives and children. The fair was in the full bloom of its second day when the Parker party drove into the grounds at 2:30 o'clock.

The candidate's diplomacy was quite apparent when he began his round of exhibits. Credited with being the most particular farmer in Ulster county, he could have handed out some apt criticisms, but such was not his way. Every horse got a nod of approval, every lamb a glance that indicated that it was of high standing, every head of cattle a word that led its owner to believe that perhaps the ex-judge was mistaken when he went to fooling with red polls. Chickens clucked with joy as he praised their fat and feathers.

Wouldn't Play Ball.

Less utilitarian parts of the show did not appear to attract the candidate. In vain the artful dodger, a woolly black, pleaded with the candidate to throw a baseball at his head. Mr. Parker also passed up the astrologer and the Romany queen.

While Mr. Parker was gazing upon the most artistic litter of piebald pigs, he was summoned to the reviewing stand to see the floral parade. When he took a front seat he was recognized and there was a lot of applause. Two little girls in a cart drawn by led horses stopped in front of the candidate and sang, "Two Little Girls in Blue," which pleased him immensely. Before the floral show was over he left the stand and resumed handshaking. Women jostled each other to get near him.

Women Become Sarcastic.

In fact, there was some feminine political jealousy. "There's that Mrs. Meyers shaking hands with the judge," said one, "and she's the blackest republican there is."

"Mrs. Jebson's butting in, too," said her companion. "I guess she thinks her brother will be appointed postmaster at Tomkill. I know her husband's a Roosevelt man."

The candidate was cheered as he left the fair at 4 o'clock. He reached home at 7 o'clock.

SHEPARD SPEAKS FOR PARKER.

Tells a Vermont Audience of Some of the "Reforms" That Will Be Effected if Democracy Wins.

Bennington, Vt., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Edward M. Shepard of New York City spoke here today in the interest of Alton B. Parker for the presidency.

Mr. Shepard, who was the democratic candidate for mayor of New York City against Seth Low in 1901, is one of Parker's most intimate friends, and visited him at Rosemount before going on this speaking tour.

He referred to the views expressed in the candidate's speech of acceptance, and declared further that if the democratic candidate were elected it would mean a dissolution of the partnership between great corporations and the United States government, a refusal of a subsidy to the shipping or any other interest, and a refusal to reopen the negro question.

At the time Mr. Shepard visited Rosemount it was said he went to discuss with the candidate issues to be taken up in the forthcoming letter of acceptance.

NEW COMMITTEE STIRS CRITICS.

Usefulness of State Republican Body Is Questioned by Party Workers.

AIMS TO END FACTIONS.

Stories of Lack of Harmony Emphatically Denied by Chairman West.

The usefulness of the new executive body created by the republican state central committee is being criticised in sections of the republican ranks. The objection raised to it is that it serves the purpose of keeping factions alive. Its purpose is to allay partisan feeling.

The republican managers accountable for the new body, the "managing committee," assert that the factions did exist in the primary fight and that it would be useless to expect that they are not now alive. The only reasonable plan of action, it is declared, would be to recognize the partisans and use them for the advancement of the state ticket.

Would Forget Primary Fight.

In objecting to this scheme the argument is made that the primary fight should be forgotten as rapidly as possible, and, therefore, it was not good politites for the state committee to announce that a new committee had been appointed to deal with the partisans. The objections also take in the makeup of the committee. Many Yates men do not recognize a stanch supporter of the governor in John H. Duncan of Marion. He was appointed, however, with the concurrence of Scott Cowen and A. L. French, two of the Yates lieutenants.

Declares There Is No Discord.

Chairman West yesterday gave out a statement in reply to democratic attempts to show discord between federal officeholders and Mr. Deneen.

"The state committee is working entirely for the republican ticket," he said. "We are for every republican ticket in each senatorial and congressional district and county in the state. We are working for nothing else. We are not making any plans relative to the next senatorial contest in the legislature. So far as I have been informed, all the supposed candidates for the United States senate are working for the state ticket and are not trying to advance their alleged candidacy."

Explains Apathy of Voters.

Congressman Henry Sherman Boutell, returning from New York and the east, explained the apparent apathy of voters by declaring the season was not far enough advanced for hot political work.

"It should be remembered," he said, "that, before 1896, campaigns did not begin until the middle of September. In that year Mr. Bryan began as soon as nominated. Now we are getting back to the old methods. That is all there is to the apathy."

The Fourteenth Ward Roosevelt and Deneen First Voters' club has been organized, with D. A. Russell as president and Emil Wentzlas as secretary. Vice presidents have been appointed for every voting precinct.

SEE PROBLEM IN VAST ESTATE.

Friends of Mrs. J. R. C. Walker Wonder What Will Become of Weightman Millions.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—What will become of William Weightman's millions, now the property of Mrs. J. R. C. Walker, his daughter, when the latter dies, is a question discussed by those who know the family. Mrs. Walker is an ardent Roman Catholic, comparatively a recent convert, and has no heirs.

The mutli-millionaire chemist started in life as a member of the Church of England. As he grew older and his wealth increased, he conceived a distaste for a church of any kind. Fear that one would get hold of his wealth became almost a mania with him. Mrs. Walker was trained in the Church of England, but finally embraced the Roman Catholic religion. She converted her husband, and tried to convert her father. From this grew a bitter quarrel, which threatened to complete the estrangement. The matter finally was adjusted.

It is believed a trust deed is in existence whereby the daughter is barred from making over any part of the estate to the church.

UPHOLDS KILLING OF A WOMAN.

Brother of Slayer of Mrs. Harter at Cincinnati Defends Principal in Dual Crime.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Declaring that Mrs. Harter, one of the victims of Sunday's double tragedy, ought to have been killed, Benjamin Druien and A. T. Emmons, brothers of the principals in the dual crime, met here today to arrange for the burial. Druien says he does not censure his brother for the act.

WOULD BALK LAW WITH KNIFE.

Mrs. Bridgmann, Ottumwa, Ia., Assaults Port Huron, Mich., Customs Official.

Port Huron, Mich., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Mrs. F. F. Bridgmann of Ottumwa, Ia., assaulted a customs officer with a knife when he attempted against her protest to examine her hand baggage.

BLIND MAN ASKS DIVORCE

NATHAN E. HAMMER ACCUSES HIS WIFE OF CRUELTY.

Declares Spouse Frequently Has Abused and Threatened Him—Court Decides Thomas Kinsley Must Pay Expenses Incurred by His Mother-in-Law While She Was Trying to Secure a Divorce for Daughter—Reconciliation Puts End to Plans.

Nathan E. Hammer, totally blind, yesterday began suit for a divorce from Stella W. Hammer, alleging cruelty. He is an insurance agent at 4711 Prairie avenue, and lost his eyesight two years ago.

The plaintiff declares Mrs. Hammer has violently abused him and threatened to drive him away. Several times, he alleges, he has been compelled to seek refuge with friends.

One instance cited by Hammer is that his wife, despite his entreaties, attended a theater while he was ill, and refused to give him a glass of hot milk when she returned.

Loses Suit to Mother-in-Law.

Thomas Kinsley's mother-in-law, Mrs. Tenscher, decided her daughter needed a divorce. She spent time and money in working up a case and then, when the husband and wife agreed to "make up," she determined that her son-in-law should repay her. Justice Underwood yesterday agreed with her.

Two months ago the Kinsleys were residing at 82 Hastings street. The wife took her baby and other belongings and "went home to mother." Then the divorce suit was started. Nonsupport was alleged. One day Kinsley and his wife met in the street.

"I want to find a more rapid lawyer," she said.

"I have $1,500 in a bank," declared Kinsley.

"I guess I was a little bit hasty about that divorce. Let's make up."

Bill Accompanies the Baby.

Then a messenger was sent to Mrs. Tenscher to get the baby. The following bill, with a request for immediate payment, was returned:

For lawyer's fees	$3.00
Milk for the baby	.28
Car fare going to court	.30
Total	$3.58

Kinsley is said to have written on the bill "O fudge" and then he returned it.

A new bill was at once prepared. It included board, milk, and other expenses of Kinsley's wife and baby and it amounted to $73.58. Justice Underwood decided he must pay it.

CONTINENTAL PARTY BORN AND TICKET NOMINATED.

Thirty-four Delegates Meet at Uhlich's Hall, Name Gen. Charles Howard for President, and Adopt a Platform.

For president—Gen. Charles H. Howard, Chicago.
For vice president—George H. Shibley, Washington, D. C.

With the nomination of the foregoing national ticket the continental party came into existence last night at Uhlich's hall, 27 North Clark street. Considerable mystery was cleared up by the national convention, as the continental party has been an unknown quantity and the cause of considerable speculation in republican and democratc administrative circles.

Thirty-four delegates constituted the convention, but one went to sleep early in the proceedings and probably should not be counted. He did not wake up until the ticket had been nominated. Twenty-seven different states were represented, but as it was by postal card and letter the convention decided not to seat these delegates.

The convention waited until 9 o'clock for its chairman, Dr. James P. Lynch. He arrived in a perceptible state of hurry and explained that he had been "bridged."

Everything progressed in an easy and pleasant fashion until the platform had been adopted. This called for reciprocity with Canada, the government building of transcontinental railroads, the income tax, tax on unoccupied lands, election of senators by direct vote of the people, and the abolition of governmental evils.

After it had been adopted, D. W. Hammond presented a resolution for compulsory arbitration. Representatives of labor unions objected to the amendment.

Michael Haley said he could not understand the attitude of the young laboring men towards the question of arbitration, but before his words could affect sentiment it was discovered that the convention had voted to place the amendment on file.

Gen. Howard is a brother of Gen. O. O. Howard and a publisher in Chicago. He was a Bryan democrat. Shibley, the vice presidential candidate, was also a Bryan democrat.

OLDFIELD WAS NOT TO BLAME.

Coroner's Jury Says Fatalities at St. Louis Auto Race Were Due to Poor Track Policing.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Barney Oldfield was today freed from blame in connection with the death of John Scott and Nathan Montgomery, who were killed by Oldfield's machine at the fair grounds track last Sunday. A coroner's jury today placed the responsibility for the accident on the fact that the track was not properly policed.

CANADA'S CAREER NEARING A CRISIS

Present Government Is Committed to Tariff Reduction, but Waits on British Policy.

without getting seasick or paying high freights."

Here then will be the issue as it is forecasted now by both conservatives and liberals. The nonimperial, liberal, Canadian party, now in power, will offer Canada reciprocity, continental trade unity, if you please. The conservatives will propose Chamberlainism, British imperial oneness, solidarity of commerce with the crown colonies and dependencies as against all the world and with British patriotism, American hostility, and faith in Britannic dominance all in the scales against reciprocity.

Leaning to Reciprocity.

The prudential and selfish preponderance of opinion in Canada now leans towards reciprocity rather than towards Chamberlainism. There is no doubt whatever but that these two questions are advancing to the position of Canadian political eminence. The dominion must and will have one or the other.

The exigencies of the situation require, as it appears, two intervening developments. First, England will adopt the Chamberlain plan; second, the United States will take the initiative in a reciprocal treaty proposal. Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his party believe that both of these events will culminate. The silence of the government here is now quite understandable.

Influence of Patriotism.

Much has been written of the weight of the British patriotic sentiment and of the overshadowing influence in parliament of the French province of Quebec. A word here of these two influences in Canadian politics is apropos. Quebec, whose parliamentary representation of sixty-five members is for Laurier, first, last, and all the time, not because of his policies so much as because of his French-Catholic-Quebec proclivities and origin, is not given to imperialism. French Canada is Catholic and French before it is anything. It is, superficially at least, in favor of reciprocity as against Chamberlainism.

But there is another phase that must not be overlooked. Quebec votes as it prays. The French Catholic clergy rule its political as well as its religious leanings. The priests—astute politicians every one of them—believe that reciprocity, commercial unity with the United States means inevitably, sooner or later, political amalgamation with the United States. This the Catholic church of Quebec, and, therefore, of Canada, does not want. Why? Because in French Canada the church has privileges, exemptions, powers which it could never have under the government of the United States. Of France by origin and ecclesiastical dominance, the church of Canada has recently witnessed the estrangement, the bitterness of the warfare of France upon Roman Catholicism. Religious orders have been expelled; the Roman church is no longer tolerated by the French government.

Only British Are Free.

"There is no more freedom except beneath the British flag," said a curé of Quebec the other day.

And under the stars and stripes there are no special privileges even for the church. These, briefly mentioned, are the reasons why French Quebec, drilled by its priesthood, may shun reciprocity at last and espouse the cause of Chamberlainism and British imperial unity.

Of one thing you may be sure; the most important, vital political controversy in the history of Canada is pendant upon the success of the Chamberlain propaganda in England.

"We will oppose the tariff imperialism of the conservatives with reciprocity," said a member of the liberal government today. "But remember this, trade unity with America will lead inevitably to national amalgamation, and the opposition will not fail to so inform the people. It will be the crisis of affairs for us."

TARIFF PLAN IS PASSED BY.

R. Prefontaine, Canadian Minister, Says There Is No Strong Sentiment for Reciprocity.

That there is no pronounced sentiment in Canada in favor of a reciprocity treaty with the United States was declared last evening by R. Prefontaine, Canadian minister of marine and fisheries, who stopped in Chicago on his way home from the St. Louis exposition.

"The subject of reciprocity is not considered by the people of Canada, and I know of no great feeling in favor of it among the business interests," he said. "It is not in our minds. Canada is satisfied with the present prosperous conditions. Colonial Secretary Chamberlain's plan is not interesting Canadians, either."

In Mr. Prefontaine's party were Col. Gourdeau, deputy minister of marine, and Maj. Talbot, member of the Canadian parliament.

DR. THOMAS HERRAN DEAD.

Former Colombian Minister to the United States Passes Away at Liberty, N. Y.

New York, Aug. 31.—Dr. Thomas Herran, who represented Colombia at Washington for several years up to the time of the Panama incident, died today at Liberty, N. Y. Dr. Herran, while chargé d'affaires ad interim, signed with Mr. Hay, Jan. 22, 1903, the Panama canal treaty between the United States and Colombia, which, despite all he could do, was rejected by the Colombian congress. This was the disappointment of Dr. Herran's life, and from that and the severe strain under which he labored throughout the negotiations he never fully recovered.

Mr. Herran was educated in the United States and devoted his life largely to his country's foreign service. In his appointment as Colombian minister to the United States he achieved the unique distinction of becoming the accredited minister to the country he had once represented as United States consular agent to Madelline, Colombia.

Dr. Herran leaves a large family.

MEAT MAY BRING FAMINE PRICES.

"Independent" Beef Advances as Result of Extension of the Strike.

GREATER RISE EXPECTED

Big Packers Will Sell at Old Rates, but Do Not Deliver Their Product.

Meat famine prices—if not an actual scarcity of meat—were foreshadowed yesterday in Chicago as a result of the extension of the stockyards strike to the independent packing houses.

"Independent" beef prices advanced sharply a cent a pound, wholesale, and the retailers' prices are expected to soar from 2 to 3 cents a pound within a day or two. The big packers held their prices steady and declared that as far as they were concerned no important increase would be made.

Inasmuch as over half of the city trade has been supplied by the independent packers, wholesale commission dealers declared that a rise in the price of the independent product means that over half of the city will feel the higher cost of meat.

Further Advance Predicted.

Steaks, roasts, and choice cuts of beef, it was predicted, will be selling from 3 to 5 cents higher by the end of the week. The cheaper cuts, it was said, will not experience so sharp an advance, although they, too, will cost more.

The advance made by the wholesale dealers who handle "independent" beef was not due to a scarcity. With the meat now in the coolers and that which will be delivered from the independent packing houses before any strike order can take effect, it was estimated by dealers that Chicago has an ample supply for two weeks to come. Fears that a famine was imminent, however, were given by the wholesalers as the reason for raising prices.

Prices Respond to Rumors.

The prices responded quickly after rumors of the closing down of the independent packing establishments circulated. Within two hours after Fulton street market opened in the morning dressed beef carcasses ruled a cent a pound higher.

"Since 7 a. m.," said Richard J. Collins of Leyden & Collins of the Fulton street market, "prices for straight cattle have jumped a cent a pound on the average. I look for a still sharper advance tomorrow. The retailers will not be affected for a day or two, but they will have to meet the advance sooner or later."

Pork and mutton were not so strongly affected, but the wholesalers declared that the price schedules for these products will undoubtedly follow the lead of beef.

Schedule of Retail Prices.

Retail butchers and marketmen viewed the higher wholesale prices with alarm, but they made no important changes in their prices. The following prices were quoted yesterday at a big south side retail market:

	Cents.
Porterhouse steaks	22 -25
Sirloin steaks	19 -20
Round steaks	12½
Rib roasts	18 -20
Rolled roasts	10 -12½
Pork loins	12
Pork chops	12½
Mutton chops	12½-16
Legs of mutton	12½

Charles E. Russell, manager of Swift & Co.'s wholesale market at the stockyards, said that the big packers would sell meats at the same prices which had prevailed before. In the bulletin wholesale price list issued by Swift & Co. the prices ranged from a cent to 2 cents lower than those quoted by the dealers in independent meat. In Fulton market choice cattle carcasses brought 9½ cents a pound, while Swift & Co. offered the best at 8½ cents.

DEJECTED OVER STRIKE ORDER.

New York Union Men Disturbed, and Workers in Other Cities Not Yet Called Out.

Reports on conditions caused in other cities by the butchers' strike were made last night as follows:

NEW YORK CITY—Dejection was felt among union men over the news that a general strike of the butchers of the country had been ordered. Members of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen formerly employed by Swarzschild & Sulzberger and the United Dressed Beef company expressed themselves as displeased with the situation. The packers declared they were operating at full capacity and making all deliveries.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—A deluge of stock which will tax the capacity is expected as a result of the order calling out the live stock handlers in Chicago. Four cars intended for Chicago were dropped off at Milwaukee. President Patrick Cudahy of the Cudahy Packing company said the strike would not affect the local plant, which is nonunion. Henry Yohn, secretary of the local Butcher Workmen's union, has not yet been notified of the new strike order.

ST. Switchmen declared they would refuse to go out. Packing plants are running night and day, with a large output.

OMAHA, NEB.—President Donnelly's order calling out the butchers in the independent plants will have little effect in South Omaha. There are four plants, and these employ only a small number of men each, many of whom are nonunionists. Probably not more than a dozen men will obey the order to walk out.

Oldest Striker at the Stockyards.

WILLIAM FITZGERALD

One of the cattle handlers who went on strike yesterday is William Fitzgerald, 3626 Emerald avenue, who is the oldest employé of the Union Stockyards and Transit company, if not the oldest in "Packingtown." Fitzgerald has been continuously in the employ of the stockyards since 1868, three years after they were opened. The striker has had charge of one scale for the last fourteen years. He boasts that in his thirty-six years of service he never lost a day until yesterday, either through illness, layoffs, or strikes. Fitzgerald went out willingly, however, declaring he was glad to help the butcher workmen in their fight. He is 74 years old, was born in County Cork, Ireland, and came to Chicago in 1854. He resides with his daughter.

RELY ON FAMINE TO WIN STRIKE.

ent supply is exhausted not a steer is to be slaughtered.

Strikers Make One Concession.

The teamsters, it was announced, will remain at work until the last of the union killed meat is delivered, after which they, too, will go out. It was predicted that the last of the butchers and teamsters will quit by Saturday. One concession was made by the strikers that union butchers should work for the independent packers provided they bought their cattle on the hoof and did not bring it in through the stockyards. The packers declared it practically impossible to get cattle in this manner.

Donnelly sent his request that they refuse to handle cars to the switchmen's union in the morning, and afterwards announced that the switchmen would meet in the afternoon to decide what action they would take. They did not get together, however, and instead a delegation from the union attended the meeting of labor leaders in the evening at Haney's hall. Vice President Connor declared that it would be "suicidal" for the switchmen to refuse to handle the packers' cars.

In Buffalo last night Grand Master Hawley of the switchmen reiterated this declaration.

Railroad Officials Confident.

General Supt. Fitzgerald of the Chicago Junction railway company said:

"Our men never will be so foolish as to refuse to handle cars, no matter to whom consigned or with what they are loaded. We have around 100 switchmen, and 80 per cent of them are members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, while the others belong to the Switchmen's Union of America. They are satisfied, and we are paying them good wages, and I know they will not even consider the proposition made to them by the strikers. If the members of either one of the organizations were to refuse to handle cars we could fill their places in an hour."

The walkout of the cattle handlers caused great inconvenience to the commission men and the stockyards company, but by using some of the office force and with the assistance of the commission men, the work was got through with, and the cattle, sheep, and hogs were driven into the runs, weighed, counted, and checked after some delay.

Will Feel the New Walkout.

The independent packers who will be affected by the new strike order and the number of men employed by each is given as follows:

H. Guth & Co.	100
Hoff & Brennan	100
Standard Packing company	75
David Levi	100
Louis Pfaelzer & Son	25
Boyd, Lunham & Co.	350
Hess, Pearce & Pfaelzer	150
Roberts & Oake	300
Henry Boore & Co.	275
Total	1,475

In the yards the packers said that there was no possibility of a meat famine in Chicago. They declared they are killing plenty of cattle of all kinds to supply the demand, and they asserted they can make deliveries to their branch houses independent of the teamsters.

Packers Give Out Statement.

The packers gave out the following statement last night:

"The packers do not believe allied labor organizations would go on sympathetic strike if they fully understood the fact that the butcher workmen twice had been given an opportunity to arbitrate any and all differences they may have had. The butcher workmen decline to avail themselves of the opportunities offered them by the packers, and hence the packers do not believe the attitude assumed by the butcher workmen would command the support of other labor organizations.

"The packers wish it distinctly understood that they are not engaging in any campaign against unionism. They generally have got along amicably with the unions."

May Call Out Car Workers.

An order probably will be issued this morning calling out the 150 car workers employed in the repair shops at the stockyards. These men left their work at the beginning of the strike when the cattle handlers struck, but they returned.

"Boro-Formalin" (Eimer & Amend), used as tooth and mouth wash in the morning, leaves mouth sweet and pure all day.

MAN TRIES TO FORCE WAY INTO MORRIS RESIDENCE.

Stranger, Believed at First to Be a Striker, Attempts to Push Door Open When Request for Food Is Refused—Owner Is in Europe and Relatives Are Occupying the Dwelling—Telephone Call Brings Police—More Strike Violence.

A stranger, shabbily dressed and at first believed to be a striker, last evening attempted to force his way into the residence of Nelson Morris, 2453 Indiana avenue. The packer and his family are in Europe and Mrs. Wolmansdorf, her son Alvin, 18 years old, and a daughter, relatives of the Morrises, are occupying the dwelling. They resisted the intruder and the latter fled after the police had been summoned by telephone.

The stranger first asked for food. His manner was offensive and the Wolmansdorfs refused him. The women ran into the dwelling, followed by the boy. As the latter was about to close the front door the stranger pushed against it and tried to force his way in. The Wolmansdorfs finally succeeded in shutting the intruder out. The police declared he was a tramp.

Error Leads to a Slugging.

Mistaken for a strike breaker, George B. Bailes, 85 West Twenty-third street, yesterday was attacked and beaten by men he declared to be union pickets. When found by the police the victim's face had been gashed in many places with a knife with the purpose of disfiguring him.

The assault was committed at Halsted and Forty-sixth streets while Bailes was about to board a street car. He had just returned from New York and had left a train at West Sixty-third street. He was accused of being a strike breaker and was attacked by four men.

While trying to deliver a load of ice at the Cudahy establishment in Ninety-second street early in the evening William Olson was attacked by strike pickets. The police rescued him and arrested T. S. Sampson, 407 Ninety-first street. He was severely beaten while resisting.

WASHINGTON TO HIS RACE.

Negro Leader Tells Business League to Cultivate a Reasonable Pride—Welcomed by Mayor.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 31.—President Booker T. Washington of the National Negro Business league addressed an audience composed of 3,500 white and colored people at Tomlinson hall tonight. At today's opening session the negroes were welcomed by Mayor Holtzman and John W. Kern.

"The negro population of so many of our northern states and cities is increasing at such a rapid rate," said Mr. Washington, "that prudence directs us to face frankly the problems that are likely to grow out of our presence and influence.

"The question arises whether or not our people are increasing their usefulness to these northern communities as fast as their numbers multiply."

In conclusion Mr. Washington said: "Let us never lose faith in our country or ourselves. In every part of the republic let us cultivate a reasonable pride of race. We should not fail to let it be known that we are as proud of our race as the white man is of his."

COTTON CROP TOTAL FALLS OFF

Report of New Orleans Exchange Shows 10,011,374 Bales, 1903-04, Against 10,727,559 Previous Year.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 31.—The totals of the annual report of the cotton crop of the United States, compiled by Secretary Hester of the cotton exchange, were given out today.

They show receipts of cotton at all United States ports for the year 7,252,222 bales, against 7,724,104 last year; overland to northern mills and Canada 939,943, against 1,083,383; southern consumption, taken direct from the interior of the cotton belt, 1,198,209, against 1,920,027, making the cotton crop for the United States for 1903-'04 amount to 10,011,374, against 10,727,559 last year and 10,680,680 the year before.

GIVES 1,714,144 AS POPULATION.

School Census Furnishes a New Set of Figures on Chicago's People.

MINORS NUMBER 680,592.

Germans Lead Foreigners with 202,091, or 183,987 Less than Americans.

The present total population of Chicago, as shown by the school census, is 1,714,144. The report of the canvass last night was presented formally to the board of education by Secretary Lewis E. Larson. The enumeration was more thorough and more complete in detail than any census previously taken by the board. The figures were collected by 300 enumerators at a cost of $24,000.

As compared with the estimate of Chicago's population made by the compilers of the city directory, the school census is disappointing, and as compared with the school census of 1900 it is surprising. The latter count gave Chicago a population which outnumbers that shown by the present census by 193,551 persons.

Gain Over Federal Census.

Following is a table showing the most recent figures on the city's population:

City directory estimate, 1904	2,241,000
City directory estimate, 1903	2,231,000
School census of 1900	2,007,695
Federal census of 1900	1,698,575
Federal census of 1890	1,099,850

A comparison between the federal census of 1900, which always has been considered accurate, and the school census just completed, which also is declared to have been accurately taken, shows that in the last four years Chicago has made a gain of 15,569.

As evidence that the present census is accurate, Secretary Larson submitted figures showing that the school reports for May, which are accurate to a pupil, showed an average daily membership in the schools of 236,886, while the census showed the total school attendance to be 245,933.

Many More Men than Women.

The enumeration reveals that there are in Chicago 212,845 more males than females. Of persons more than 21 years old there are only 18,216 more males than females. This would indicate that the birthrate of girls is considerably larger than that of boys. The number of minors in Chicago is given as 680,592. The school census of 1902, which recorded only the minor population, gave 627,262. This gives an increase of 53,330 minors.

The increase will pay the cost of the census, as the apportionment of the state school tax is based upon the minor population. Hence the 53,330 minors who have become residents of Chicago since the last census have given the school board a profit of $24,000.

Following are some of the totals given in the census:

Number of males in Chicago	863,549
Number of females in Chicago	850,595
Number of persons 21 and over	1,033,552
Number of persons under 21	680,592

35	16,820	17,073	33,893
Totals	863,549	850,595	1,714,144

The census shows the voting population of Chicago to be 525,884. The number of women who would be able to vote, should suffrage be extended to them, is 507,668.

Germans Lead Among the Foreign.

The nativity of the adult population shows Chicago to be a city of extraordinary cosmopolitanism. The Germans outnumber all other foreigners. There are in the city only 173,987 more native born American than German adults. The local German population is only 7,000 less than the population of the German city of Hanover and only 27,000 less than that of Frankfort-on-Main. There is one Irish Jew in Chicago, one Filipino, and one Porto Rican. There are three Bulgarians—two men and one woman—and four Manx and five Indians. There are 2,479 foreign born Americans. The following nationalities have, in order, the largest representation:

American	386,078	Negroes	24,071
German	202,091	Norwegian	20,851
Irish	96,152	Italian	18,195

Give Data on Illiteracy.

The report on illiteracy shows that of those 21 years of age or more the total number who can read but cannot write is 844, with 380 males and 464 females. The number who can neither read nor write is given at 2,322 males, 2,399 females, a total of 4,721. Of those less than 21 and more than 12 years old, 106 can read but cannot write, and 210, equally divided between the two sexes, can neither read nor write.

Little Children Number 140,417.

The total number of children in Chicago less than 4 years old is placed at 140,417. The number 4 and 5 years old attending the public schools is 8,761; attending other schools, 3,909, and not attending any school, 56,053. The number of children less than 15 and 6 or more years old attending the public schools is 220,983; the number attending other schools is 58,805; and the number not attending is 23,562. The corresponding figures for persons from 15 to 21 years old are 16,189, 8,993, and 68,983.

Secretary Larson explained that the failure of the census to show a great gain over the federal census of 1900 probably was due to the fact that the present census is the first taken since the changing of the ward boundaries, and that consequently it was impossible to check up except by school attendance.

PUPILS MUST READ POEMS.

SCHOOL BOARD ADOPTS LIST FOR SUPPLEMENTARY WORK.

Some Prose Prescribed, but Most of the Books Named Are in Verse—Supt. Cooley Says Wide Range Is Needed to Satisfy Teachers of Different Tastes—New Course of Civics and Nature Study Accepted—Appropriations Made.

Poetry is to be used as a vehicle to convey culture to the public school pupils. The board of education at its initial meeting of the new term last night adopted a list of books for supplementary reading calculated to develop a love for poetry and for good literature in general.

The books on the list are for the use of the pupils of the seventh and eighth grades. On the list are twenty-eight books, of which twenty are in verse. Supt. Cooley explained that in his opinion good prose is as valuable for culture and the development of literary taste as poetry and that the predominance of poetical works was largely due to the fact that he considered American poetry to be generally of a higher class than American prose.

He declared that the large range of the poetry was due to the fact that some teachers like Browning best while other teachers have other favorites. The list was so devised as to give the followers of Browning and the followers of Shakspeare, Longfellow, Lowell, and others an equal chance. He characterized the discarded list as "too narrow to meet the needs."

New Curriculum Adopted.

The new course of study for the public schools, which was outlined in THE TRIBUNE Tuesday morning, was adopted without a dissenting vote.

The board voted to appeal the teachers' tax case and carry it to the state Supreme court if necessary.

Eighty thousand dollars was added to the appropriation of $125,000 for the erection of an addition to the Lake View High school. The additional expenditure was made necessary by the decision of the board to equip the addition with manual training rooms, machine shop, forge room, and gymnasium. An appropriation of $13,000 was voted for text books for indigent pupils. An appropriation of $5,000 was made for a lighting plant in the William McKinley High school. Fred M. Sargent was elected supervisor of the extension lecture courses at an annual salary of $2,500.

MAYOR ANSWERS BURKE'S SUIT.

Repeats Charges Made to Grand Jury About Retention of Oil Inspection Fees.

Mayor Harrison has accepted Robert E. Burke's challenge and joined legal battle. Burke brought suit to recover the $30,000 which he advanced when a heartless grand jury threatened to indict him for alleged malfeasance in office, and Maclay Hoyne, assistant corporation counsel, last evening made an answer in which all the charges against Burke are more than reasserted.

Burke was oil inspector from May, 1897, to October, 1901, and the indictment charged that he had collected from the Standard Oil company fees largely in excess of what he had returned to the city. While the grand jury was hearing the evidence Burke sent to the city checks for $30,000, thinking it would prevent his indictment, but indicted he was notwithstanding. Then he demanded $30,000 and sued to recover it.

ARGUES FOR ARMY CANTEEN.

Brig. Gen. Jesse M. Lee Reports Abolition Has Promoted Drunkenness and Disorder.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—Brig. Gen. Jesse M. Lee, commanding the department of Texas, in his annual report says: "Desertions continue without any marked decrease. While almost everything possible has been done for the care and comfort of the soldier, the improvement of the ration, establishment of expensive and elaborately equipped exchanges, gymnasiums, amusement rooms, etc., the desertions continue without material abatement. The effect of the abolition of the canteen is to increase unauthorized absenteeism, and promote drunkenness and disorder, all tending directly to induce desertions."

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1904.

ROOSEVELT THE DANGEROUS.

The New York World is probably the most enthusiastic Parker paper in the country. To an extent it is striking the keynote of the Parker chorus in the east. Two of its editorials are to be reprinted and circulated by the democratic committee as campaign documents. These two editorials are in the form of open letters addressed by Joseph Pulitzer, editor of the World, to Theodore Roosevelt. The first one occupied a page—the second nearly two pages. The third may take up three pages.

In the words of Mr. Pulitzer, "The paramount issue of this campaign is not, as you would have it, free trade or free silver, but YOU YOURSELF—Theodore Roosevelt. This issue is forced upon the country by your unusual temperament and talent—your own strong, able, ambitious, resourceful, militant, passionate personality, your versatile and surprising genius."

This issue was framed by the World in its first letter, July 30, 1904. But as that document did not seem to frighten anybody to Parker, the hot blood of strong desire denied mounted to the brain of Mr. Pulitzer, and his emotions ravished his judgment. His second letter—the one two pages long, printed on Aug. 23—is addressed to "Theodore Roosevelt, Candidate for President of the United States and the Western Hemisphere." The headlines ask if the president is a "military megalomaniac." He is accused of a "monomania" to be the "grand lord protector" of the two Americas.

This letter is interesting—first, because the World is generally recognized as the chief Parker spokesman; second, as an exhibition of that gibbet of folly to which partisan zeal, untempered by common sense, can, on occasions, elevate a man ordinarily so level headed as Joseph Pulitzer.

Roosevelt's record, contends the World, clearly indicates that his return to power would be vested with the ruin of our free institutions. It proceeds to examine all his despotic procedures and unconstitutional usurpations, seriatim. But it unquestionably omits much that would make its case stronger. For instance, it does not show how the president has increased the standing army so that it has become a menace to the liberties of the citizens. [For, in fact, during President Roosevelt's administration the army has been diminished, not increased.]

It does not prove how the ambitious, costly, and bloody wars conducted during the present administration were begun, not as the constitution provides, by an act of congress, but at the imperial dictation of the ruler. [For, in fact, there has been no war of any sort during President Roosevelt's administration.]

It does not even show how the president has brought the country to the verge of a desperate war, which was prevented only by the retreat of the country which he threatened, as it might have proved against its favored President Cleveland. [For, in fact, the president has at no time brought the country near a war. His efforts and those of his secretary of state have been consistently directed toward the peace of the world, and the circumscribing of the area of hostilities once wars have begun.]

It does not show how President Roosevelt had used either corruption or force to influence elections in any state, so abasing the principle of local self-government, nor how he had deposed a recalcitrant governor, or dissolved a hostile state assembly—after the fashion of certain reconstruction presidents. [For he has done none of these things.]

It does not show how he influenced judicial decisions, reversed a decree of court, or suspended a judge who had striven to limit the presidential usurpation. This is always the first symptom of the dissolution of constitutional government. [But President Roosevelt has not been guilty of it.]

It does not show how, when the legislature, maintaining its independence, refused to divest itself of its authority and humbly accept the "advice" of the man on horseback, he filled the halls of the lawmakers with bayonets, overawed the tribunes of the people, dissolved the sitting, imprisoned the ringleaders. As is well known, the terrorizing of the legislature is the twin forerunner, with the control of the judiciary in the downfall of free institutions.

It does not show how the president annulled the right of free speech and imposed a vexatious censorship upon the press. The World's own articles are living proof that he has done none of this.

It does not show how, like the greatest of our presidents, he has, under the plea of national duress, suspended the writ of habeas corpus—the very spirit of civil liberty. [For President Roosevelt has not suspended the writ of habeas corpus.]

Thus the record shows President Roosevelt has, in no single way, even embryonically exceeded his constitutional functions. He has not turned his face in the direction of a single one of that set of actions whereby the usurpers of history have established themselves in power on the ruins of freedom. Nevertheless, the World reiterates that, by his record, it can prove Theodore Roosevelt to be a man dangerous to the liberties of his country. How can this proof be wrought?

In a simple way. By passing over in silent contempt his record as a thoroughly constitutional and patriotic president; by picking out of their contexts some of the things he has said—taking one paragraph from one speech, another paragraph from a different speech; by taking one sentence from a paragraph here, another sentence from a paragraph there; even by taking a phrase from a sentence here, another phrase from a sentence there; by then weaving these different contextless paragraphs, sentences, and phrases into a single fabric—which fabric, charges the World, is truly indicative of the whole character of the man Roosevelt!

In pursuance of this plan the World has carefully picked out of their settings the twenty-six most bellicose, absolutist, imperialistic sayings of which President Roosevelt has ever delivered himself. These are the quintessence of his bloodthirsty expressions. Nothing that he has said has ever gone farther on the road to military despotism than these twenty-six things—which are reprinted in another column. Let the reader look them over and judge of the danger which is threatened.

Of course, as every reasonable being knows, such ex parte argument is not fair. It were easy by choosing out all of Jefferson's sayings on one side to prove him an ardent expansionist, or by picking out of all his writings on the other side to prove him a bigoted contractionist. He could be shown up as a protectionist, if all that he said in favor of that principle were collected together, while all that he said against it were omitted. Or by reversing the process it could readily be demonstrated that he was an absolute and perpetual free trader. It could be shown that he was a practical anarchist, advocating a revolution every twenty years, that the tree of liberty might be kept well watered with blood. Or by omitting this class of his writings and combining the opposite class he could be represented as constantly enjoining implicit obedience to the law.

The strategist, by omitting all mention of his successes, or of his bold and daring conceptions, while on the other hand carefully collating and combining those instances when his judgment erred, when his execution was false, or when his intuitions failed, could readily prove Napoleon Bonaparte to be one of the most hopeless and unfortunate of military incompetents.

The critic who selected out from the vast library of Shakspeare only the weakest passages could show by many examples that the dramatist tried to conceal his woeful misapprehension of character and his imperfect mastery of his native tongue by the wretchedest puns and the most hopeless doggerel rhymes.

It is useless to multiply examples. By such a narrow scheme of special pleading the wise man could be shown a fool, because wise men sometimes are foolish. The most foolish man could be shown a sage, because foolish men sometimes are sensible. The gutter drunkard could be proved a teetotaler, for he has occasional periods of complete sobriety. Such a method is wholly false. The World knows it and resorted to it only because its case was weak.

The Tribune commends its readers to the twenty-six excerpts chosen by the World and printed in another column on this page. They are the strongest proofs which can be collected by his enemies to show that Roosevelt is a dangerous man. And until the time has come when pusillanimity is a virtue, patriotism a joke; when the craven is honored for his cowardice and the hero despised for his courage; when the weakling is venerated for his feebleness and the strong is disdained for his strength, President Roosevelt will not suffer in the estimation of the American people by these, his words, wherewith the World has, with ill advised judgment, endeavored to damn him.

If you would judge what kind of a president Roosevelt would make the fairest method is to consider what kind of a president he has made. But if you, for some reason which it is not easy to conceive, refuse this test, and prefer to judge him on what he has said, do not read merely stray words and sentences gathered and arranged by his enemies. In all fairness read these words in their proper contexts. Read as much of Roosevelt's writings as you have time for. You will find them the expressions not of a bloody and despotic intellect but of a clean, strong, honest mind, instinct with patriotism.

THE PACKERS AND THE UNION.

The packers have a right to refuse to treat with the union. By availing themselves of that right they are helping to spread the strike and to bring the waters of discontent in this city to the boiling point.

The Tribune said last week that the union had sinned. It had thwarted the packers in the daily management of their business. It had broken its word at the beginning of the second strike. It deserved punishment. But its punishment should not be annihilation.

The Tribune's judgment has been ratified by what has happened since. The annihilation of a union infuriates the working people of America. The packers are living in America. It is not possible in America in the year 1904 to try to annihilate a union like the butchers' union without making a bad industrial situation worse.

Last week the butchers were whipped. They were willing to go back. They would have accepted almost any terms. There was only one point to which they stuck. They wanted a piece of paper recording their defeat but signed by the officers of their organization.

But the packers refused to recognize the union in any way. The butchers did not go back. They are still out. And they are persuading other working people to go out. They may reach the railways. They are beginning to appeal to poverty in general against wealth in general. Rather than see their union destroyed they are willing to call their fellow workers of all kinds to their assistance. And their fellow workers think that they are right.

President Roosevelt has said that it is right for both labor and capital to organize. Most of the rest of us say so, too. And we do not like to see either side denying or denied the privilege of organizing. Especially when we ourselves suffer from the denial.

THE TRACTION CRISIS.

The time has come when a profoundly serious appeal must be made to the good sense and to the civic patriotism of both the ultra-radicals and the ultra-conservatives of this city.

The ultra-radicals have begun a campaign for the purpose of preventing the passage of the present Chicago City railway company ordinance. In other words, they have taken up arms against the only feasible solution of the city's difficulties.

It is false to say that the ordinance gives the company new rights for nothing. The ordinance, in its essence, does not give the company a single right not already in the company's possession. What the ordinance does is to average the company's rights and to fix them at thirteen years. It then goes on to give the city new rights by demanding compensation, the underground trolley downtown, modern equipment, and the like.

It was a case of bargain. The company had something—namely: its indisputable rights over certain streets. The city had something—namely: its indisputable rights over certain other streets. A bargain was necessary. If the bargain is not ratified our present abominable situation is indefinitely prolonged. It is time for the ultra-radicals to bethink themselves.

Some thinking must also be done by the ultra-conservatives. The Chicago City railway company has not said that it would accept the ordinance. The Union Traction company has shown itself hostile to the idea on which the ordinance is based. There is a persistent rumor that the men controlling the Union Traction company are trying to get control of the Chicago City railway company. If both companies now draw back from the bargain held out to them they will be declaring war on the city. The city has made its last concession. The day on which that concession is finally rejected will be the last day of peace between the companies and the city of Chicago. It will be tedious, it will be expensive to condemn the companies' ninety-nine year rights and to pay for them. But the companies will have left the city no other alternative. When it comes to a question of the survival of the companies or the survival of the city, the outcome of the fight will see the city alone in the field.

If the present bargain falls through there is nothing ahead for either the city or the companies but litigation, financial loss, insecurity, and execrable service. The time has come when prejudice and sentiment must yield to reason. Otherwise we are adrift on a sea of discomfort and distress with all ports below the horizon.

Port Arthur is still effectually picketed.

The oyster will "receive a reception" today.

The city pumps, it seems, will have to pump again with a great deal of the water that hasn't passed.

Scorching automobilists must be more careful. They are beginning to collide with one another.

But that is no reason for neglecting the obvious duty of sending a copy of that charter amendment circular to some voting friend outside of Cook county.

At this juncture the independent packers are not so sure about their independence.

If the Immortal J. N. could make his appearance now, assume the pressure, and lift the veil, he might render a great service to this hard pressed community.

South Water street merchants, if we are correctly informed, will be permitted to send out vegetables and fruits for a few days yet.

Capt. Hobson, late of the U. S. navy, thinks President Roosevelt is responsible for the Georgia lynchings. Well, Mr. Roosevelt is a "respectable citizen."

It looks like it will be King Corn.—New York Commercial.

The corn fields is looking right peart. There ain't no denying that.

If Johnny is a good boy he may go to school again next week.

Mr. Bryan will begin his campaign in Missouri. He can't do any harm in that state.

It is a lucky thing for all of us, perhaps, that there were no balloons in the days of Christopher Columbus.

Until these troubles in Wisconsin have been straightened out that state may have to bump along without a treasurer.

Unexpected delays, for which the Russians appear to be wholly to blame, are hindering the Tokio celebration of the fall of Port Arthur.

Uncle Joe Cannon is going to Indiana to indulge in one of his celebrated rambles.

It is an open question, nevertheless, whether it is a good idea to advertise a world's fair on billboards, as if it were a breakfast food, a soda biscuit, or a cheap excursion on a lake steamer.

It is a little late to spring the story on the people that Candidate Davis' middle name, Gassaway, is pronounced "Gazzway." It looks gauzy.

The only way to make New York City any wider open than it is now, under the Tammany administration, would be to turn it inside out.

Astronomers estimate the distance from the earth to Alpha Centauri, the nearest fixed star, to be about 25 trillions of miles. Rather than have any fuss about it the average mortal will accept the estimate as approximately correct and let it go at that. What signifies a matter of a trillion or two of miles when it comes to fixed stars?

A street carnival appears to be good for all kinds of business except that of the business men.

The meat famine is to come now, in dead earnest.

How about the oyster packers?

C. W. T.

LETTER OF MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

Copyright: 1904: By the Marquise de Fontenoy.

Fears of a landing in Brittany by the duke of Orleans are exercising the French government just at the present moment, and account for the extraordinary precautions which are being adopted all along the northwestern coast of France. The coast guards and semaphore station keepers have received special instructions to report at once the presence of any strange yacht, while at Morgat, the remote seaside resort in Brittany, where the countess de Paris, with her daughters and her son-in-law, the duke of Guise, is about to make a stay of several weeks, has become the scene of much activity on the part of government officials and of detectives.

The countess de Paris has already made two previous stays at Morgat in former years, and it is pretty generally known that her son, the duke of Orleans, taking advantage of the isolation of the place, brought his yacht to anchor in a neighboring bay, landed, and spent a considerable time with his relatives on shore.

The government is determined to prevent any repetition of this infraction of the stringent laws of exile in existence against the pretender, the more so as Brittany is at the present moment a hotbed of disaffection and of hostility towards the Combes administration, arising, not alone from the severity of the authorities in dealing with the religious orders, but also from the attempts which have been made to do away with the Breton language by preventing its use in the state endowed churches, in schools, and in all official communications.

In fact, at this particular juncture the duke of Orleans' presence in Brittany might give rise to serious disturbances, since the population would almost to a man not merely espouse his cause but hail him as the champion of their own and of that of the church, while the soldiers, and especially their officers, showed plainly when recently forced to take part in the expulsion of the religious orders that their sympathies were with the latter and in no sense in accord with the administration.

Indeed, the duke's presence on Breton soil, and especially any attempt made by the government to interfere with him when once on land, might quite possibly lead to a royalist rising which would spread throughout Brittany and even extend to other parts of France, and while victory would ultimately remain with the republic, judging from the recent provincial diet elections, yet it would not be obtained without much trouble and expenditure of money, and probably of life.

It must be remembered that Brittany has always been the part of France most loyal in its devotion to the monarchical cause and to that of the church, the two usually going hand in hand in France, and that nearly all the great royalist insurrections have originated in the west of France. So the government is well advised in taking precautions to prevent any landing on the part of the duke of Orleans.

The fact that the French government should have on several occasions closed its eyes to surreptitious visits which he paid to France would have been under ordinary circumstances likely to encourage him to land at Morgat for the purpose of staying there with his mother and sisters. For he knows full well that the government is just as reluctant to place him behind the bars as he is to undergo imprisonment, the authorities being well aware that by putting him in jail for infraction of the law of exile they are making a martyr of him, endowing him with prestige and popularity, besides raising troublesome questions with those foreign courts with which he is related by ties of kinsmanship.

Thus as the brother of the queen of Portugal, as the brother-in-law of the duke of Aosta (heir apparent to the Italian throne), as the husband of an Austrian archduchess, as the son of a Spanish infanta (the countess of Paris), his imprisonment can only prove a source of embarrassment to the French government, which he believes would only resort to such an extremity were his violation of the measures of banishment decreed against him to give rise to disturbances, or to be of as public a character as when he turned up one morning at Paris some ten years ago and demanded to be allowed as a French citizen to do his term of obligatory service in the army.

On that occasion he was imprisoned for twelve months and then expelled, the French government having no alternative but to punish him on account of the publicity of his offense.

King Edward's suite at Marienbad has been a small one, and yet it has included about a dozen persons, if one comprises the servants among the number, while the baggage of the party amounted to some eighty trunks, filling several large vans. The suite consisted of the king's equerry, Gen. Sir Stanley Clarke; his groom-in-waiting, the Hon. Sydney Greville, younger brother of Lord Warwick; and his assistant private secretary, Capt. Ponsonby. Each of these three gentlemen in waiting has his own valet, and then there is the king's head valet, with his two assistants, his brusher, his sergeant footman, and two assistant footmen, his leibjaeger, and his courier. From this it will be seen that even when the king travels incognito as a nonroyal person, as a mere nobleman under the name of a duke of Lancaster, he still remains surrounded with a considerable amount of state.

Apropos of Gen. Sir Stanley Clarke, it may be mentioned that he has just purchased in his own name, but on behalf of the king, Grafton house at Newmarket, which was formerly the residence there of the late Baron Hirsch. At his death it passed into the possession of Sir Ernest Cassell, but since the latter has purchased Moulton paddocks Grafton house has been for sale. It stands next to the duke of Devonshire's residence in High street at Newmarket, just opposite the Jockey club, and both Baron Hirsch and Sir Ernest Cassell spent fortunes in remodeling and furnishing the place on a sumptuous scale.

The exterior painted white gives little indication of the beauty and comfort of the interior. The spacious entrance hall, 26 feet long and 16 feet wide, leads to a lofty and beautifully fitted dining room, with mirror panels and antique carved mantels. The first floor is reached by a fine winding staircase, the corridors open into lofty drawing rooms which run the full length of the house, the massive marble fireplaces being striking features of these apartments. There are several handsomely furnished bedrooms with carved paneling, with dressing rooms and bathroom attached, while on the floor above there is abundant accommodation for servants. A spacious lawn separates the house from the stables, where there is plenty of accommodation for carriages, motors, and for about twenty-eight horses, these opening on to a road leading directly to the heath.

As soon as the news of the sale of Grafton house to Gen. Sir Stanley Clarke became known it was assumed that he had bought it for the prince of Wales in connection with the latter's racing plans. But it now turns out that the general has acquired it for the king, who has long felt the need of more commodious quarters and of a residence more in keeping with his dignity than the suite of rooms at the Jockey club, which he occupied for so many years as prince of Wales. In fact, the king has had no means of entertaining his friends, save at the club, when at Newmarket, being more or less dependent upon the hospitality of those of his friends and associates who have places either at Newmarket or in the neighborhood. Henceforth, however, he will have a house at Newmarket of his own.

Americans who attend levees next year at St. James' palace will have difficulty in recognizing that one time royal abode, at any rate as far as the interior is concerned. All its somber character and, to put it mildly, its dinginess, have disappeared. The grand staircase is now brilliant in white and gold, which has also been adopted as the predominant note in the redecoration of the state apartments. The best pictures have been retained, but many of the indifferent ones have been removed, their places being taken by paintings of more actual interest, a place of honor being accorded to the picture representing the opening of the first commonwealth parliament in Australia by the prince of Wales.

"Do you think that politics offers a career to the average young man?"

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum. "It offers a career. But, like everything else in politics, the offer is liable to have a string to it."—Washington Star.

If Your Ship Came In

If your ship came in today—
  If the ship for which you yearn
When the sea at dawn is gray,
  When the waves at sunset burn,
If it swung to harbor now
  With its sails drooped wearywise—
Would the sea not lose, somehow,
  Half its glory to your eyes?

If your ship no more should sail
  Up and down the distant deeps,
Racing with the rushing gale
  Where the jade green billow leaps,
If it should no longer drift
  Where the calm sea stretches blue
And the dim horizons lift—
  Would the sea seem fair to you?

Ho! Your ship—if it came in
  All majestic, full of grace,
And you heard the hawser spin
  As the anchor sank to place,
If its voyaging were done
  And the cargo all were yours—
Would the sea, by moon or sun,
  Hold for you its hopes and lures?

If your ship came in today
  And you knew that all you dreamed
Now at last in harbor lay
  All as perfect as it seemed,
You would envy those who wait
  Ready for the joyous hail,
Those who watch with hearts elate
  For the flashing of a sail.

NEW COURSE OF STUDY FOR CHICAGO SCHOOLS.

The work of some 300,000 school children will be affected by the adoption of a new course of study for the elementary schools. The course now superseded has been in use seven years and the work of revision has been in progress for two. The principals of the city schools have met in weekly session with the superintendent, and each item for each grade has been made the subject of special discussion and report. The advice of grade teachers has been solicited, and the new scheme thus represents the latest pedagogical theories as modified by the experience of the ablest practical teachers. The spirit of the change has been a desire to bring the work of the elementary schools into closer relation with the life of the pupil. In part this has been accomplished by a clearer statement of what is expected of the teacher, in part by the elimination of useless lumber, and in a large measure by utilizing the healthy activities and interest of the normal child in new directions.

The most important thing for any pupil is the correct use of the English language. In the new outline of the work to be accomplished here the injunction is constantly repeated that the material shall be related as closely as possible to the interests and experiences of the children. Letters are to be written such as children might have occasion to write, and in other ways reading and writing are to be a part of real life. The carefully detailed outline of work for each year shows a natural progression, and ought to be a great help to the faithful teacher.

In arithmetic the emphasis is again placed on reality. The children will learn tables, but they will also use measures, and will train the eye. Algebra is introduced only so far as to enable the pupil to use simple equations to solve problems which would otherwise be puzzles. Enough of geometry is used for the pupil to see why areas and volumes are measured as they are and to manage the simple problems of construction which he meets in his manual work.

The study of history will begin with the explanation of the meaning of historic anniversaries and a narration of the lives of eminent men. In the sixth grade a textbook in American history is introduced and the picturesque outlines followed.

Instead of English history, the pupils will study those features of general European history, including English, which have a direct bearing upon American history. Thus, the voyage of Columbus will appear as a natural outgrowth of the activity of Europe in commerce and exploration, and the independence of the colonies will be shown to be one more step in that struggle for constitutional guarantees which began with magna charta. This study in the seventh grade will be followed in the eighth by a more detailed study of American history. The study of the history of Illinois and of Chicago will aid in fitting the pupil for a more intelligent participation in public affairs, while the study of public service, which has been going on from the earliest grades, will appropriately end in a study of the constitutions, national and state, and the city charter under which government is organized.

The hand work, which has heretofore been practically dropped between the kindergarten and the sixth grade, now appears in all the grades. Here an innovation is made in the treatment of drawing. Drawing is no longer to be an unrelated study, a mere accomplishment, but is brought into close connection with nature study and manual training. Pupils will make plans of the articles they are to construct and by constantly being brought to see the usefulness of drawing will take up that study either more enthusiastically or almost without thinking of it as a separate thing. During the year to come the drawing teachers, who have given the new project their hearty support, will work out the necessary details.

It has not been found possible in the past to devote more than half an hour at a time once a week to manual training, but the children have been so interested that they have been in the habit of taking another half hour from their own time after school for it. Now the work will begin earlier and much more can be accomplished. Far from being a burden it is a pleasure. The best results may be expected from its extension.

In the field of nature study the work will differ in the different schools according to the material at hand, and will include nothing that cannot be brought directly into the experience of the children. The old course of study was extremely vague here and not distributed according to grades, and here, perhaps, the new course shows the greatest advance. The old days when the three R's constituted the sum of elementary study have long gone by.

The chief criticism that is likely to be made is that a more varied stock of information will be expected of the grade teacher than ever before. However, the standard of entrance examinations has been gradually raised and the teaching force of the city is well prepared to meet the new demands made upon it. It is not unlikely that both teacher and pupil will find the work easier in view of the greater interest that they will take in it. It will be difficult to find a system more suited to the varied needs of a cosmopolitan city like Chicago, one more adapted to make useful and patriotic citizens of our boys and girls.

The Twenty-six Most Bellicose Sayings of Theodore Roosevelt

As Collected by the New York World.

Before Society of Naval Architects, Nov. 12, 1897:

If any man be base enough to wish that we keep peace on conditions so contemptible that it will not be worth while to kick us, let him understand that that is not the way to keep peace. Peace comes not to the coward or to the timid, but to him who will do no wrong and is too strong to allow others to wrong him.

When Running for Governor of New York, Oct. 5, 1898:

We need a far larger regular army than we now have, and we need to have it trained on a larger scale than it has been trained on for the last quarter of a century. We don't need it in the least for police purposes at home; we don't need it to preserve order, for our people are quite able to preserve order themselves, but we do need it to protect our interests abroad.

*

Address Before Loyal Legion, Oct. 5, 1898:

It will be a bad day when the American people . . . fail to remember the fact that we are bound to see that the army and navy are brought up to the highest state of perfection, because they are the sword and shield of the nation.

*

To the New England Society, Dec. 21, 1898:

I have scant sympathy with that mock humanitarianism . . . which would prevent the great, orderly, liberty loving nations of the world from doing their duty in the earth's waste places because there must be some rough surgery at the outset.

The Republican Club, Feb. 13, 1899:

If we ever grow to regard peace as a permanent condition, and feel that we can afford to let the keen, fearless, virile qualities of heart, and mind, and body sink into disuse, we will prepare the way for inevitable and shameful disaster in the future. . . . The peace which breeds timidity and sloth is a curse and not a blessing.

*

Before the Hamilton Club, Chicago, April 10, 1899:

We must build the isthmian canal, and we must grasp the points of vantage which will enable us to have our say in deciding the destiny of the oceans of the east and the west. . . .

It is worse than idle to say that we have no duty to perform and can leave to their fates the islands we have conquered. Such a course would be the course of infamy. . . . Some stronger, manlier power would have to step in to do the work, and we would have shown ourselves weaklings. . . .

Our army has never been built up as it should be built up. I shall not discuss with an audience like this the puerile suggestion that a nation of seventy millions of freemen is in danger of losing its liberties from the existence of an army of 100,000 men, three-fourths of whom will be employed in certain foreign islands, in certain coast fortresses, and on Indian reservations. . . . If we are such weaklings as the proposition implies, then we are unworthy of freedom in any event. . . . The army and the navy are the sword and the shield which this nation must carry if she is to do her duty among the nations of the earth—if she is not to stand merely as the China of the western hemisphere. . . .

In the West Indies and the Philippines alike we are confronted by most difficult problems. It is cowardly to shrink from solving them in the proper way. . . .

I have scant patience with those who fear to undertake the task of governing the Philippines, and who openly avow that they do fear to undertake it, or that they shrink from it because of the expense and trouble, but I have even scantier patience with those who make a pretense of humanitarianism to hide and cover their timidity, and who cant about "liberty" and the "consent of the governed" in order to excuse themselves for their unwillingness to play the part of men.

Before Milwaukee Chamber of Commerce, June 28, 1899:

We cannot fool with any one who bears arms against our rights and our destiny. The people of the world must be made to realize that we fear none and that we must be obeyed whenever we are contending for our rights.

* *

Before New York State Assembly of Mothers, Oct. 18, 1899:

A boy that won't fight is not worth his salt. He will be no use in life and is a coward.

From Article in the Independent, Dec. 21, 1899:

Scant attention is paid to the weakling or the coward who babbles of peace; but due heed is given to the strong man with sword girt on thigh who preaches peace, not from ignoble motives, not from fear or distrust of his own powers, but from a deep sense of moral obligation. . . .

In the long run civilized man finds he can keep the peace only by subduing his barbarian neighbor.

At Grant's Home in Galena, April 27, 1900:

We cannot leave the Philippines. We have got to stay there, establish order, and then give the inhabitants as much self-government as they show they can use to advantage. . . . We have got to see the work through, because we are not a nation of weaklings.

*

Before the Marquette Club, Chicago, May 5, 1900:

Woe to us, we children of the generation of Lincoln and Grant, if we prove ourselves weaklings.

After Becoming President, Dec. 3, 1901:

The navy offers us the only means of making our insistence upon the Monroe doctrine anything but a subject of derision to whatever nation chooses to disregard it. We desire the peace which comes as of right to the just man armed; not the peace granted on terms of ignominy to the craven and the weakling. . . .

The American people must either build and maintain an adequate navy or else make up their minds definitely to accept a secondary position in international affairs, not merely in political but in commercial matters.

Laying Corner Stone of War College, Washington, Feb. 21, 1903:

This nation has, by the mere trend of events, been forced into a position of world power during the last few years. It has responsibilities resting upon it here in the occident and in the orient as well. . . . Its voice can be potent for peace and justice only on condition of its being thoroughly understood that we ask peace not in the spirit of the weakling and the craven, but with the assured self-confidence of the just man armed.

Memorial Day Oration, Arlington National Cemetery, May 30, 1902:

The shadow of our destiny has already reached to the shores of Asia. The might of our people already looms large against the world horizon, and it will loom even larger as the years go by.

*

Before Military Order of the Spanish-American War, Boston, June 25, 1902:

Let it be remembered that of all forms of cruelty, the worst course, the most provocative of cruelty, is the weakness which hesitates to use a just, proper severity when a just, proper severity is needed.

Speech at Proctor, Vt., Sept. 1, 1902:

Remember that the Monroe doctrine will be respected as long as we have a first class, efficient navy, and not much longer. In private life he who asserts something—says what he is going to do and does not back it up—is always a contemptible creature; and as a nation the last thing we can afford to do is to take a position which we do not intend to try to make good.

Address at Tomlinson Hall, Indianapolis, Sept. 23, 1902:

If we are not prepared to back up words by deeds it is far better to omit the words. I believe in the Monroe doctrine with all my heart; I believe in asserting it because I believe the American people are willing to back it up. But it never can be backed up by words alone. If it became the interest of some great foreign power to violate it most assuredly that great power would do so if it was thought that we could only bluster and threaten, if it was believed our force was too weak to be formidable in a fight.

*

Before New York Chamber of Commerce, Nov. 11, 1902:

The voice of the weakling or the craven counts for nothing when he clamors for peace, but the voice of the just man armed is potent.

*

Before Union League, Philadelphia, Nov. 22, 1902:

Scant is our patience with those who preach the doctrine of craven weakness.

Message to Congress, Dec. 2, 1902:

But our people, the sons of the men of the civil war, the sons of the men who had iron in their blood, rejoice in the present and face the future high of heart and resolute of will. Ours is not the creed of the weakling and the coward. . . . We have deliberately made our own certain foreign policies which demand the possession of a first class navy. . . . The Monroe doctrine should be treated as the cardinal feature of American foreign policy; but it would be worse than idle to assert it unless we intended to back it up, and it can be backed up only by a thoroughly good navy.

At Bi-Centennial Celebration, John Wesley's Birthday, Feb. 26, 1903:

If, during this century, the men of high and fine moral sense show themselves weaklings; if they possess only that cloistered virtue which shrinks shuddering from contact with the raw facts of actual life; if they dare not go down into the hurly burly where the men of might contend for the mastery; if they stand aside from the pressure and conflict—then, as surely as the sun rises and sets, all of our great material progress, all the multiplication of the physical agencies which tend for our comfort and enjoyment, will go for naught and our civilization will become a brutal sham and mockery.

Speech at Chicago, April 2, 1903:

I believe in the Monroe doctrine with all my heart and soul; I am convinced that the immense majority of our fellow countrymen so believe in it; but I would infinitely rather see us abandon it than to see us put it forward and bluster about it, and yet fail to build up the efficient fighting strength which in the last resort can alone make it respected by any strong foreign power whose interest it may ever happen to be to violate it. . . . There is a homely old adage which runs: "Speak softly and carry a big stick; you will go far." If the American nation will speak softly and yet build and keep at a pitch of the highest training a thoroughly efficient navy, the Monroe doctrine will go far.

Dedication Louisiana Purchase Exposition, April 30, 1903:

Only the adventurous and farseeing can be expected heartily to welcome the process of expansion, for the nation that expands is a nation which is entering upon a great career, and with greatness there must of necessity come perils which daunt all save the most stout hearted.

Before Holy Name Society, Brooklyn, Aug. 16, 1903:

I'm not addressing weaklings. I wouldn't have come here if you had been weaklings. . . . I don't want to see Christianity professed only by weaklings. . . . Young boys don't admire anaemic virtue. . . . They admire those who have the quality of being brave to face any danger in peace or war.

*

Speech at Tacoma, May 22, 1903:

In old days, when I first came to Little Missouri, there was a motto on the range: "Never draw unless you mean to shoot." That is a pretty sound policy for a nation in foreign affairs.

Mechanics' Pavilion, San Francisco, May 13, 1903:

The inevitable march of events gave us the control of the Philippines at a time so opportune that it may without irreverence be held providential. Unless we show ourselves weak, unless we show ourselves degenerate sons of the sires from whose loins we sprung, we must go on with the work that we have begun.

KEWANEE STAR-COURIER FOR THE CHARTER.

Voters, outside of the city of Chicago, going to the polls at the November election, should make it a point to mark their ballots in favor of the proposition to give Chicago a new charter, even though they will not be directly concerned by the outcome of the present agitation.

Laughter.

When Johnny was a child they laughed at the ridiculous things he said. When he was a youth they laughed at his half baked opinions. When he was a man they laughed at his wisdom because they couldn't grasp it. When he was old they laughed at him for a crank. There is always some one to laugh, and this is a jolly world—Newark News.

On a dark night they sometimes light the two brakemen's lanterns that hang from the chimney. Often the thrum of a guitar or the twang of a banjo lends added mirth, to say nothing of the visitors who come hither for special enjoyment.

In darnings give it dignity and elevate it to a work of art. It is important, however, to know when to darn and when not to darn, as most women's time nowadays is of far more value than ordinary material in a half-worn condition; and unless the patch or darn is well surrounded by healthy fabric it does not pay for the trouble, as the least strain on the thin part makes it worse than it was before. Much mending that was held in high esteem half a century ago would now be preposterous. But if done let it be well done.

Darning thin places rather than mending holes is true economy of time and material; and whether thick or thin, cotton or woolen, a small loop of the thread should always be left at each end; otherwise the fresh threads introduced into the oft-washed garment will soon be so drawn as to pull into fresh dilapidation all around the original darn.

The mending thread should be as near as possible in size to that of the material, making the darn both look and wear better; while the needle should be as fine as the thread can carry.

With wash goods mending should always be done before washing, as it can then be done more easily and neatly and the tear or thin place can spread no further through laundry processes. It is also well to put away clothing for the season in perfect order.

Sheets which threaten, only threaten to become thin in the middle, should be summarily dealt with by splitting them at once and sewing the two outer edges together. This brings the strongest portion, where there is most wear, and the work is finished with hemming the sides. Thus twice the ordinary amount of wear is secured.

Knitted articles can be ingeniously managed with the use of a crochet needle as soon as a moderate sized hole becomes visible, catching up the stitches that seem eager to roam, and filling the vacancy with fresh stitches.

In tablecloths, patterns are always matched; and after basting on the wrong side a patch large enough to cover all the thin part, the edges of the hole should be trimmed off even and hemmed to the patch with tiny stitches as undrawn as can be. It is then hemmed on the wrong side and ironed perfectly flat.

Times of Commercial Adversity—

Bring out the true or false ring of character. When necessities force curtailment of expenditures on superfluities men and women reveal the true state of their minds by what they consider superfluities.

The virtue that lies in keeping up appearances depends entirely on the sort of appearance we aim to keep up.

It is right that everything that ministers to the higher needs of our nature should be preserved, that we should cling to the honorable social position; that neither our present homes nor essential comforts nor those things which involve the welfare of persons dependent on us should be early or lightly sacrificed.

But it is not indicative of good hearts or sound judgment to substitute false outward show for real self-reliance, and to pretend to be able to keep hold of things which cost us our life's blood.

If the world approves winning qualities and the desire to please, it despises those who cringe.

When we have set ourselves a high standard it matters little in the long run whether it be the popular standard or not.

The keeping up of a brave appearance implies that behind it is a stanch heart and enterprising spirit, which not easily yields before difficulties, and whether the object be to preserve one's business credit, to maintain social position, or to live up to a reputation for character, the worthiness of the effort is appreciated by the good public.

In this way sympathy and consideration are gained, and victory is wrested from defeat.

Moth Measures—

In spite of care moths are sometimes in evidence in the middle of the summer in trunks or closets supposed to have been so impregnated with preventives as to render their entrance impossible.

A simple and effective riddance is to heat stove lids or an iron shovel redhot, pour vinegar on the iron, and let the fumes penetrate the cracks which could not have been reached by a powder gun.

Moths are particularly fond of new plaster and the settling of the walls of new houses affords them numberless hiding places, which cannot well be reached except by fumigation.

Burning sulphur is excellent for ridding walls of any sort of vermin, but the fumes of this are objectionable to many and do not pass off so quickly as those of vinegar.

IN THE SOCIETY WORLD.

Miss Evelyn Willing and her brother, Mr. Mark S. Willing, will return to Chicago about the first of October, and will open the Willing home at 110 Rush street, for the winter. Miss Willing has not spent much time in Chicago for over a year. She is now at Bretton Woods, N. H., with her brother, who, on his return to the city, will practice law.

Mrs. James A. Hunt has taken Mrs. M. C. Baker's apartment at 567 Dearborn avenue, for the winter, where it is likely she will introduce her daughter, Miss Margaret Hunt, to society. Mrs. Hunt and her daughter have lived in New York for some time, although they have a home in Winnetka.

Another probable débutante of the winter is Miss Harriet Greeley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Greeley of Winnetka.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Doud, 3257 Michigan avenue, and Miss Florence Hastings, who have spent some time in Europe, will sail for America on Sept. 3. They will be joined in New York by Mrs. Hastings and Miss Louise Hastings, and the party will go to Lenox, Mass., for a short stay.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Scott Thurber, 3161 Groveland avenue, are now on the water sailing to this side, after a prolonged stay in Europe. They will come directly to Chicago.

Mrs. Leland Norton has taken a house in Los Angeles, Cal., and will leave the latter part of the week to occupy it through the winter.

The Italian circle is planning a celebration to take place on Sept. 20, which will inaugurate its season. The affair will be of elaborate nature, and will probably be given at Steinway hall.

The Twentieth Century club will begin its season in October, although no definite date has been arranged.

An engagement just announced is that of Miss Mary Nelson Matson to Mr. Charles Walter Brown, the author of "John Paul Jones," and "Ethan Allen and the Green Mountain Boys." Miss Matson is the daughter of Mr. Cortland C. Matson of Greencastle, Ind. The wedding will take place early this month.

Dr. and Mrs. Edwin B. Tuteur, 3645 Grand boulevard, have returned to the city after a month's absence.

Dr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Jackson and daughter, 521 Thirty-ninth street, will sail for Europe next week.

Mr. Theodore Weil and family, who have been residing in Wilmette, have returned to the city, and are at 211 Forty-eighth street.

Miss Olga Strauss of Wiesbaden, Germany, arrived this week, to be the guest of Mrs. M. Hecht, 3436 Calumet avenue.

Mrs. Ida C. Mayer, 3439 Michigan avenue, announces the marriage of her daughter, Florence, to Mr. Arthur Granquist, which took place Aug. 28.

The marriage of Miss Lois Viola Everhart, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. M. M. Everhart of Urbana, Ill., to Mr. Arthur William Handford, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Handford of Evanston, took place yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, the Rev. Rollin Everhart, brother of the bride, officiating.

COUNTRY EDITORS ARE COMING.

Illinois Publishers Will Be Guests of Press Club and the New Charter Commission.

More than fifty editors and publishers of Illinois papers, outside of Chicago, have sent their acceptances to the Chicago Press club for the outing which the organization will give next Tuesday. The Illinois Press association, which is meeting at St. Louis, yesterday accepted an invitation, and a large delegation is expected to attend.

Alexander H. Revell will head the committee for the new charter commission, which will entertain the Illinois editors at luncheon on a trip on the Columbus from Chicago to Waukegan. At the latter town the Press club will be headed by a band and will go to the trolley cars.

After a trip of ten miles there will be an inspection of Fort Sheridan. A soldiers' dinner will be served in the mess hall. Col. S. R. Whitehall, in command of the Twenty-seventh infantry, will talk of "The Relations of Fort Sheridan to Chicago." Samuel A. Alschuler will respond to "The Needs of Chicago." After the dinner there will be a return to the Columbus, and story telling and songs will follow.

Your Corner.

To WIN in defeat we must first yield to defeat.

To triumph over trials we must kiss the rod.

To wrest happiness from grief we must surrender to the path of sorrow.

To be victorious in adversity we must feel that adversity's uses are sweet.

M., December, 1878: Business affairs promise to be unsettled during the coming year. You will make many changes which will affect the entire life, and although there will be difficulties during this period of change you will reap a rich reward in about two years; your affairs will forever after be on a much better business basis. You have musical talent and educational and artistic ability, but your versatility is in a way a drawback, as you are lacking in application. Teaching is the occupation for which you are best fitted.

*

E., December, 1870: Some unlooked for events are likely to make a change in your life soon, but although you will be unsettled for a time, if you attend to your business affairs and avoid lending or risking money, you will soon be in much better financial condition. You are disposed to act wholly from your feelings and emotions, and are quiet and inexpressive. You are kind hearted and sympathetic, but so sensitive that a cross word or unpleasant look can make you miserable. A person whose birthday occurs near your own would be most congenial in marriage.

*

R. A. F., 1859: A most unfortunate transit of Saturn is now in effect in your horoscope, bringing cares and perplexities which will continue for a year or more. Investments are not likely to turn out well and you should avoid risks in money matters; above all, attend most strictly to business affairs. Your affable manners and winning disposition insure many friends. You will never lack for companionship. Your friends are not fair weather friends and can be relied upon to help you when in need. This is a propitious time for you to become interested in mind science.

*

TURQUOISE, December, 1870: You have unusual business ability and good common sense; would make money wherever placed. Your good nature and ability to resist disease insure a long life and you are shown to make a most happy marriage and to be the child of slow but steadily rising good fortune. A man whose birthday is near your own would be the most congenial in marriage, but May or June would prove fortunate. At the present time you are under vibrations which are certain to bring the unexpected.

ADVANCE IN COAL PRICES IS ANNOUNCED BY DEALERS.

W. P. Rend Declares Consumers Have the Consolation That Smokeless and Lump Are Cheaper than Last Year.

Hard coal today will be advanced 10 cents a ton, making the price $7.75. Pocahontas and lump coal, which all summer has been the cheapest fuel on the market, will be increased 25 cents a ton, making the price to consumers $4.25. It has sold as low as $3.75. An advance of 25 cents also will be made in smokeless, which will cost from $4 to $4.25 a ton.

"Consumers," said W. P. Rend, "can find consolation in the fact that smokeless and lump still are from 75 cents to $1 cheaper than a year ago at this time. Hard coal is the same price it was last September."

The dealers said the reason for the advance was the increased demand, which made it possible to sell the coal at a profit. During the summer, they declared, they had been making only expenses.

RARE RACE SEEN AT PROVIDENCE.

Sweet Marie and Tiverton Engage in Fastest Five Heats on Record.

DRIVER SMITH SET DOWN.

Judges Think He Is Not Trying to Win with the California Mare.

[BY HENRY TEN EYCK WHITE.]

Providence, R. I., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Sweet Marie, the unbeaten California trotter, won the $5,000 Roger Williams stake at Narragansett park today, the contest between her and Tiverton, the other heat winner, resulting in the fastest five heat race ever trotted. The time of the miles was 2:07, 2:07¼, 2:06¼, 2:08¼, 2:08½, Tiverton taking the first and second heats and Sweet Marie the next three.

But the victory, one of the most notable in the annals of trotting, was not achieved until the judges had taken Smith, the driver of Sweet Marie, from the sulky and put up Alta McDonald, the man whom the Boston judges last week selected to handle the same mare after they had lost confidence in Smith, and who drove her to victory. Today he repeated the performance, giving a brilliant exhibition of reinsmanship and demonstrating beyond question that no proper use had been made of the mare's speed the first two miles.

Consuela S. Is Favorite.

Consuela S., that won the Massachusetts stake at Boston, was a pronounced favorite in today's race before the horses were called, she bringing $100 to $110 for the field just before the bell rang. In the earlier selling Tiverton had been supported by the New York delegation, who thought well of his chances with Billy Andrews as driver. Starter Merrill made a bad move in the initial heat, sending Marie off in the rear of the other horses, and the start would have prevented her winning that heat even had Smith tried hard. As it was, Consuela S. and Tiverton went away from the others and raced like a team for the entire mile. Most of the distance the gelding was in front, but never far enough to leave the issue anything but doubtful. Tiverton drew away at the finish and won by a length in 2:07.

Sweet Marie finished third in this heat, way back of the leaders, and the crowd figured that she would score in her place for the second heat and go away with the others. But Smith made no move to take advantage of his mare's known speed, and when the word was given she was once more in the rear. Again Tiverton shot to the front, and he and Consuela S. made all the fight. She kept on her feet all the way this time, but with all her trying could not reach Tiverton, who won by a length in 2:07¼.

Judges Take Action.

Before the third heat the judges took decisive action. When the horses were called out Smith was told to dismount from behind Sweet Marie. He complied, but went at once into the judges' stand and made argument in his own behalf. But nothing he could say had any effect, and the crowd cheered as Alta McDonald was seen to be conferring with the judges. The applause increased as the numbers were taken from Smith's arm and pinned to McDonald's jacket. Then the Albany reinsman got up behind the mare and showed what she was capable of when driven for all that was in her.

When the word was given he took Sweet Marie right out with Tiverton and made the race a two horse one from the jump, Consuela S. no longer being the contender. After a heart breaking struggle the mare came home in 2:06¼, by far the fastest trotting mile of the year in a race, while the performance thus far made the race the best three heats trotted this season.

Applause for McDonald.

It was now considered certain that Sweet Marie would win. Rounds of applause greeted McDonald as he came back to the wire with the mare. The cheering was repeated when he brought her out for the fourth heat. Again Sweet Marie and Tiverton made all the fight, Consuela S. being laid up in the hope that after the others had gone one more hard mile she could come on and win. Tiverton made a tired break in the last 100 yards and Sweet Marie won in 2:08¼. This gave the race the fastest four heats trotted this season, but there was more record breaking to come.

Tiverton was done for, and if Consuela S. was to win a heat now was her time. She scored away fast for the fifth heat, got the best of the start, and made the fight right from the wire. Her first quarter was :32½ and the half 1:04¾, with Sweet Marie right there every step of the way. Around the far turn they swept with undiminished speed, the three-quarters being done in 1:37.

Finish Is Exciting.

In the homestretch it looked for a while as though Consuela S. would win, but Sweet Marie hung to her all the way, and in the final stride got her nose in front enough to win by a foot or so, ending the best race between trotters ever put in the books.

MORE HONORS FOR CLEVELAND.

Home Drivers Win Five Races and Charley Mac Makes a World's Record Under Saddle.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Cleveland again carried off the honors in the races at today's intercity matinée, winning the challenge cup race and four other races. In addition one world's record was broken, Charley Mac being ridden under saddle by Mr. C. K. G. Billings to a new mark of 2:14¾, the former record being 2:15¾.

The winner of the cup race was the mare Mustard, owned by Congressman J. A. Beidler of Cleveland and driven by H. K. Devereux. The other starters were E. E. Smathers' Sphinx S., Mr. Billings' Greenline, F. E. Powell's Egum, J. D. Callery's Delpha, and J. A. Gleesonkamp's Alta W., the last two being from Pittsburg, while Egum was the Columbus representative. In the first heat Greenline and Sphinx S. set a hot clip for the first quarter, endeavoring to kill off the remainder of the field. They killed themselves, however, and Devereux brought Mustard up and won by half a length from Sphinx S., the time for the first half being 1:01.

Devereux again tried a waiting game in the second heat, and again won this time by a length from Sphinx S. Greenline led to the draw gate when he met with an accident, or, rather, he was fouled by Smathers, who brought Sphinx S. so close that the tire was torn off the rear wheel of Greenline's wagon. Mr. Billings, however, refused to enter any protest, and the red ribbon went to Sphinx S.

Of these sixteen races held in the two days Cleveland won ten, New York two, Syracuse two, Pittsburg one, and Memphis one.

C. K. G. Billings and H. K. Devereux each drove four winners, Devereux winning both cup races. F. G. Jones, E. I. White of Syracuse, and E. E. Smathers of New York each won two, while J. D. Callery of Pittsburg and H. A. Watterson of Cleveland won one apiece.

JOCKEY LOSES THE RACE.

CARTER IS GROSSLY CARELESS IN THE HARLEM STEEPLECHASE.

Overconfidence Causes Him to Bring About the Defeat of Golden Link by John E. Owens—Takes It Easy Near the Finish and Fails to See Rival Coming Up on the Outside—Dalvay Runs a Mile in 1:38—McGee Performs Well.

The Golf steeplechase, Harlem's feature event yesterday, was won by the rank outsider, John E. Owens, simply because of overconfidence on the part of J. Carter, who rode Golden Link.

The latter was by far the best horse in the race, and took the last jump with a lead of two lengths. He had matters practically his own way, and a sixteenth out looked an easy winner. At this point Carter began loafing, and while watching the horses on the inside he overlooked John E. Owens on the outside until the final stride, when too late, with the result he lost the race by a neck. Cardigan finished third. Carter's ride was so listless he was called before the judges, fined $100, and suspended for the balance of the meeting.

The race was one of the best of its kind seen in a long while, as every one was trying. Rip, the Canadian jumper, running well up with the leaders, fell at the last obstacle, throwing his jockey, Casey, heavily. The boy fractured his collar bone, and the horse, it was reported, broke down.

McGee, Ed Corrigan's bread winner, won the six furlongs handicap without much effort, and gave weight to every horse in the race.

The best race of the day from a time standpoint was the fourth, at one mile and seventy yards, in which the winner, Dalvay, equaled the track record. Shawana set a fast clip, leading Dalvay by two lengths until well into the stretch. Dalvay's time for the last mile was 1:38 flat.

CAUGHNAWAGA WINS IN STAKE.

Defeats Dainty in Fast Time for Twin City Handicap—Artful Takes Great Filly Purse.

New York, Aug. 31.—In a hard drive Caughnawaga at 3 to 1 won the Twin City handicap at Sheepshead Bay today, with Dainty second, and Grasiallo third. The mile and a quarter was run in the fast time of 2:05. McChesney, which won this stake last year, defeating Hermis, was made favorite today on the strength of a fast trial, but was always outrun, finishing next to last.

Artful, the Futurity winner, added another victory to her list today by winning the $10,000 Great Filly stakes. Artful and Rose of Dawn were coupled in the betting, and held at the prohibitive odds of 1 to 15. Artful and Belle Strome ran close together to the stretch, where Artful drew away and won under wraps by half a length in the fast time of 1:11 3-5, which is one-fifth of a second faster than her time in the Futurity.

Hildebrand, who was posted to ride Metropole in the first race, was thrown while warming up the horse, and refused to ride him. Miles was substituted. Metropole had been heavily played from 4 to 1 to 13 to 5, but when the jockeys were changed Metropole's price went up to 8 to 1. He finished away back. Goldcroft, the winner, was backed from 40 to 15 to 1, and the ring suffered a heavy loss. Summaries:

C. A. A. ATHLETES UNABLE TO GAIN.

Rose Wins a First, but the New Yorkers Add Two to Their Total.

OTHER OLYMPIAN GAMES.

Big Michigan Collegian Breaks Record, as Expected, in Shot Put.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Two world's records and four Olympic records were lowered at the second day's racing at the world's fair stadium.

Two firsts went to the New York Athletic club through the work of Hillman and Ewry, while Hahn gave a first to the Milwaukee Athletic club. Ralph Rose came in for a new world's record in the shotput event, while Varnell and Hogenson added three more points to the Chicago Athletic association score in the 400 meter hurdle and 220 meter dash.

In the handicap events Daly of Ireland showed well, winning the mile with a twenty yards handicap in 4:27⅕. Wilkins, who joined the C. A. A. team yesterday, secured fourth place in the pole vault, while young Dray of the Oxford school, Chicago, with a ten inch handicap, obtained second place.

Another First for Hahn.

Eight men appeared for the 200 meter dash, and Hahn and Hogenson were the winners of their heats. Cartmell and Moulton qualified by running second to Hahn and Hogenson respectively. In the final Hogenson, Cartmell, and Moulton were penalized two yards for false starting. Hahn, the only man to hold his mark, not only held his two yards' advantage but also increased the lead to three and one-half yards at the finish. Cartmell was third man off the mark, but 150 yards from the start Hogenson broke badly and was passed by Cartmell. Hogenson finished two yards behind Cartmell, with Moulton six feet back.

The standing high jump proved easy for Ray Ewry, the present champion, who won with 4 feet 11 inches. In exhibition he reached 5 feet 3 inches. Stadler, Cleveland, and Robinson, G. N. Y. I. A. A., tied at 4 feet 10 inches, and in the jumpoff Standler secured the second place. Fourth went to John A. Biller, Newark N. T. V., New Jersey.

Deprived of a Great Record.

The 400 meter hurdle resulted in a manner quite similar to the 400 meter run of Monday. Harry Hillman, N. Y. A. C., was again the winner, with Waller, M. A. C., second. The time, :53, broke the Olympic record by 4 3-5 seconds. The remarkable time could not be allowed, as Hillman knocked down one hurdle in winning the event. Waller followed the eastern man by less than a yard. Poage, four yards back, came in for third, while to Varnell, C. A. A., went the one point and fourth place.

In the shotput Rose, C. A. A., came in for first place and a new world's record of 48 feet 7 inches that was allowed to stand. Rose was forced to his best effort by Coe of Cambridgeport, Mass., who threw the 16 pound weight 47 feet 3 inches. Rose had put the shot 48 feet 7 inches, but the performance was not accepted as a world's record. Georgantas, Greece, managed to reach third place with 43 feet 10¼ inches, while fourth honors went to Sheridan, G. N. Y. I. A. A., at 40 feet 8 inches.

In lifting the bar bell Perikles Kakousis of Athens, Greece, had no serious competition. After winning by lifting 186 pounds he broke the Olympic record when he raised 246 pounds above his head.

The Milwaukee Athletic club and New York Athletic club teams won the right to contest in the final of the tug-of-war.

BEST BID GETS RHEINSCHILD.

Michigan and Wisconsin Said to Be Offering Good Inducements to California Athlete.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—If the University of Michigan meets the remunerative offer of the University of Wisconsin Walter Rheinschild, star tackle on last year's Los Angeles High school football team, will go to Ann Arbor. If the Badger school outbids its rival Rheinschild will go to Madison.

Rheinschild weighs 190 pounds and is considered the best academic football player in south California. Some weeks ago he received a letter from Manager Baird of Michigan offering to pay all training expenses and later received an offer of a remunerative position in Ann Arbor. Rheinschild had almost decided to accept when the Wisconsin manager promised him a position at the state capitol, two hours' work a day at $60 a month. All traveling expense were to be paid by the manager, and even in case the player did not make the varsity eleven the position was to be his.

Rheinschild leaves tomorrow. At Kansas City he is to hear from Baird. If the latter equals Wisconsin's offer he gets the player. If not, Rheinschild will join the Badger squad.

University of Southern California in Los Angeles also made a bid for Rheinschild's services.

More Material for Northwestern.

E. G. Thayer of the University of Washington arrived in Evanston yesterday, and will enter Northwestern university. Thayer was captain of his college football team last year, playing tackle. Busse, a husky miner from Telluride, Colo., also arrived yesterday. He will try for the back field. Manager F. O. Smith left yesterday for St. Louis to look over the material gathered there at the games.

GOLF ENTRIES TOTAL 142.

LIST FOR NATIONAL AMATEUR CHAMPIONSHIP IS GIVEN OUT.

While Smaller than in Previous Years, the Field Contains Most of the Well Known Players of the United States—Louis James and Both the Egan Boys Are in the Number—Byers, the Runner Up of Last Year, Is Entered from Pittsburg.

New York, Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Entries for the amateur golf championship, which begins next Tuesday at the Baltusrol Golf club of Short Hills, N. J., were paired by public drawing today by the executive committee of the U. S. G. A. The special meeting for this purpose was attended by Vice President Adrian H. Larkin, Secretary W. Fellowes Morgan, and Committeemen Daniel Chauncey and Fred S. James of Chicago.

Following instructions received at the annual meeting literally, a non-member, Ransom H. Thomas of the Morris County Golf club drew the names from a hat. Douglas, Macdonald, and James, former champions, are among the 142 entries, also H. Chandler Egan, W. E. Egan, and Frank O. Reinhart, the intercollegiate champion.

The list bristles with names of likely youngsters any one of whom has skill to win if in vein. Among them are Hereshoff, Wilcox, and Roy Desraismes. It is the first time this element has looked so strong in advance. Eben M. Byers, runner up to Travis last year and to Louis N. James in 1902, and who played in the British championship, is back in this country for the amateur championship, but without any of his British chums.

Byers slipped in by way of Boston and has been golfing at Watch Hill over the links of the Misquamicut Golf club. There were 145 entries last year, but belated names will probably bring the present list up to the same total. The pairings:

WOMEN'S GOLF TOURNAMENT.

First Rounds for Homewood, and Suburbanite Trophies Fail to Produce Many Surprises.

First match play rounds in the women's open tournament at the Homewood Country club yesterday were productive of few surprises and only two of the sixteen contests for the Homewood and subordinate trophies were finished on the home green. Mrs. W. L. De Wolf, who has not been seen much in tournament play this year, showed a return to her Midlothian form and defeated Miss Mary Gardner by a larger margin than was looked for. Miss Carpenter was six up on Miss Helmer at the turn and then the young Midlothian player won three holes in succession, but eventually lost 5 down and 3 to play. The winner went out in 46. Although getting rather high medal scores, Mrs. Alexander and Miss E. Towner, her clubmate, had an interesting contest, Mrs. Alexander winning the last three holes and finishing 2 up. Rain threatened several times during the day, but conditions for golf were good. Summary:

SCANLAN BEATS THE COLTS, 2 TO 0

GESSLER STOPS A RALLY.

Hanlon's crippled Superbas, with their manager absent, and with a castoff pitcher on the slab, gave Chicago's Colts a clean coat of whitewash yesterday in the second game of their final series here. The score was 2 to 0, and Scanlan, whom Barney Dreyfuss considered too slow for the Pirate crew, was chiefly responsible for the nothingness.

The youngster from New York state showed yesterday that he had the goods and knew how to deliver them. He pitched the Colts out with six hits, and only once did two of these get together. That was in the fourth, and it was Chicago's finest chance to win. But with men on third and second and one out, Scanlan coolly struck out Evers and let Carney out with a little grounder.

Brown was hit only a trifle harder, but was wild at the start and gave the visitors their first run. The other was the result of a bunching of three hits in the fifth. Capt. Chance resumed his stand on first base, and this gave Doc Casey a chance to rest up the lame side which has been troubling him for weeks, making it painful for him to remain in the game. Barry switched over to third base, and Carney, the wonder from Spokane, was given a second trial in right. He struck out only once in four times at bat, and showed speed in fielding. He is considered a little unripe for National league company, however, and will be sent back to the coast at the expiration of a ten days' notice.

Brown passed Dillon for a beginning, and he reached second on Gessler's out, moving to third on a wild pitch, only to be run to death on Lumley's hit to Evers. Lumley scooted to second in the meantime and scored on Sheckard's clean hit to right. Nothing more happened until the fifth, when singles by McCormick, Dillon, and Lumley enabled the little fellow to score Brooklyn's second run.

The Colts looked like winners in the fourth. With Chance out, McCarthy singled and Kling pushed a double along the right foul line, McCarthy being stopped at third. Evers struck out and Carney hit slowly to McCormick. A one handed stab by Gessler in the ninth prevented a possible winning rally. McCarthy led off with a single and Kling smashed one through right center, but the man with the William Tell name ran back, stuck up his mitt and speared the ball as it was soaring past him. If that hit had gone safe it might have changed the result. Score:

Notes of the Colts' Game.

Brooklyn winds up its season's work here today.

Carney cut out the crouch at the bat yesterday and hit the ball every time up except the last, but none of them went safe.

Evers had a busy day at second with eleven chances, his one error being a high throw to Chance, which did not figure in the result.

Munch and Koukalik, the local pitchers, were in Brooklyn uniforms yesterday, but Capt. Dillon did not need them, the way Scanlan was winding the Colts around his finger.

Evers nearly lost the chance to retire Dillon in the first inning. After getting Lumley's grounder cleanly Evers ran in toward the plate, and Dillon started back toward third. Evers slipped and fell, dropping the ball, but recovered in time to shoot it to Barry and get the verdict from Umpire Carpenter, although Dillon averred he was not out.

CATCHER BOWERMAN ARRESTED

Rowdy Exhibition in Cincinnati Ends in Assault of Spectator and Small Sized Riot.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 31.—A small sized riot, which ended in the arrest and subsequent release of Catcher Frank Bowerman of New York, was one of the exciting features of today's double header between Cincinnati and New York.

During the fourth inning of the first game Dahlen and McGann of New York were ordered off the field by Umpire Zimmer for disputing decisions. This started the spectators to "roasting" the New York players. The abuse became so severe that Bowerman, who was not playing, walked over to the little fence separating the grounds from the grand stand and struck a spectator on the face, lacerating his jaw.

There were demands for Bowerman's arrest, but he was not taken into custody until Acting Mayor Gordon, who was in the stand, ordered the police to take him up. On arriving at the station Bowerman apologized to the man he had assaulted, who thereupon refused to prefer charges against the catcher, and he was released.

Notes of the White Sox Game.

Of the eleven games the White Sox have played here this season they have won only two and lost eight.

Callahan played a wonderful fielding game in left, pulling down at least two drives that were ticketed for extra base hits.

Monte Cross robbed Callahan of a base hit in the eighth by jumping in the air and stabbing a drive over his head with his bare hand.

The White Stockings left immediately after the game for Washington, where they will play four games—one postponed from the first series.

MURPHY PUTS UP A GOOD FIGHT.

New Yorker Springs a Surprise on Bantamweight Champion Neil in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 31.—Tommy Murphy of New York gave Frankie Neil of California, the bantamweight champion, one of the hardest fights of his career tonight in a six round bout at the National Athletic club. The fighters were so evenly matched, and each gave and took punishment so well, that a draw would have been a good decision if the law permitted the referee to give one.

Neil was the aggressor, but Murphy gamely met every rush. The Californian had a slight advantage in the first three rounds, but in the fourth the New Yorker squarely met his rushes, and when the bell rang had Neil against the ropes. In the fifth Murphy hit Neil almost at will and had the champion greatly worried when the bell rang. The last round found both men fighting at a terrific pace. After the fight was over Neil went to Murphy's corner and asked him for another bout. The clubhouse was crowded to the doors, many of the spectators coming from New York.

Notes of the Golfers.

The qualifying round for the women's championship at La Grange will be played this morning.

Playing at Onwentsia yesterday in a practice match with Stewart Stickney of St. Louis, H. Chandler Egan set the amateur record for the course at 71, going out in 35 and home in 36.

Semi-finals in the women's tournament at Riverside resulted in Mrs. J. S. Driver defeating Miss Ruth Jenkins, 5 up and 3 to play, and in Miss Grace Smith winning from Miss B. Sherman, 7 up and 6 to play. Finals will be played today. Mrs. William Ward won the consolation event with a score of 71.

Robert Gardner of Hinsdale won the Burlington junior championship, defeating Arthur Seckel of Riverside in the final match at Hinsdale yesterday by 3 up and 2 to play. In the semi-finals Seckel defeated Douglas Tweedie of Belmont, 2 up and 1 to play, and Gardner defeated G. Magian of Belmont, 4 up and 3 to play.

Play in the junior championship tournament at the Chicago Golf club will start this morning. It will be a choice score affair at 36 holes. C. E. Smoot and R. E. Hunter are the principal entries received so far, but as entries can be made at the tee a number of clever players are expected to compete.

EASY DAYS FOR THOSE GIANTS.

New York Wins a Double Header in Cincinnati—First Contest Goes Eleven Innings.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 31.—The Cincinnatis lost both games of a double header with the New Yorks this afternoon. Poor hitting on the part of the locals and Kelley's muff of a thrown ball in the eleventh inning gave the New Yorks the first game. Consecutive hitting in the first inning gave the New Yorks enough runs to win the second game, which was called in the seventh inning to allow the New Yorks to catch a train. Dahlen and McGann were benched in the first game for kicking. Attendance—3,521. Scores:

SOX SHUT OUT BY THE ATHLETICS.

Final Game in Philadelphia Results in the Defeat of Comiskey's Men.

BAD JUDGMENT BY OWEN.

Mistake Gives Home Team Its Only Tally—New York and Boston Win.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Chicago dropped the last game of the season to the Athletics today, being shut out, 1 to 0. By winning today the Athletics regained third place.

A bad play on the part of Frank Owen, who pitched for the White Sox, handed the game over to the locals. For seven innings the two clubs had struggled along without a smell of a run. In the seventh Powers singled and Plank bunted, but in so doing fell all over the plate. The ball went to Owen on the first bound, but he threw only the batter out, though George Davis was standing on second base yelling his lungs out for Owen to throw to him. Powers thus reached second and scored the winning run when Pickering singled. Manager Jones was wroth over Owen's want of judgment and came in from center field to upbraid him for it.

This was not the only headless play on the part of the visitors, for with a little more ball playing in the ninth they might easily have tied up the score. Davis had led off with a single and stole second. Tannehill tried to bunt, but, failing twice, the third time he cracked a liner into Harry Davis' hand and George Davis was doubled up. Had Tannehill been able to bunt Davis would have gone to third and could have scored on a fly to the outfield.

Outside of this both pitchers did grand work, and the game was full of beautiful plays all the way. Owen was hit harder than Plank, but in the early stages of the game the luck was with the White Sox. Chicago had what looked like a good opportunity in the third when Sullivan opened with a scratch two bagger. Owen couldn't advance him, but Green did with a sacrifice, and then Plank sent Jones down on strikes.

Comiskey's men began the ninth as if they were going to tie up the game, but the Athletics had the horseshoe. George Davis singled and stole second right off the reel. Then Tannehill cracked a hot liner straight to Harry Davis, who doubled George off second without any trouble. That ended it, for though Isbell drew a pass he was nipped a moment later trying to steal, and the White Sox were whitewashed. Score:

Umpire Has Narrow Escape.

Waukegan, Ill., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—John Roach, a baseball umpire, had a narrow escape from death while umpiring a ball game in the fair grounds at Libertyville today. He wore no protector and was hit over the heart by a foul tip. He fell senseless and physicians were so long bringing him to, it was thought he was fatally hurt. Finally he recovered and was able to walk away.

CLAIRVOYANTS.

AN HONEST PROPOSITION — PROF. JAMES White, Chicago's celebrated clairvoyant, palmist, and spirit medium, is permanently located here. His honesty, test of time, and 11 years of continuous practice in Chicago have proved beyond all doubt that Prof. James White is the leader of his profession. As proof of his WONDERFUL POWER, to all who come prepared for readings this week he will tell your FULL NAME, ADDRESS, OCCUPATION, AND THE OBJECT OF YOUR VISIT ABSOLUTELY FREE OF CHARGE. His advice pertaining to love, law, business, wills, estates, lawsuits, buying or selling property, speculation, investments, marriage, divorce, etc., is unequaled. He reunites the separated, causes speedy and happy marriage with one you love, restores lost affection, removes evil influence—in fact, everything. Prof. White's advice is much sought for on past or future investments, for which he has no equal. He charges not one penny for such advice until the investment has paid a handsome profit. Is this not fair and honest? Great reduction this week. Prof. White, as a matter of advertisement, this week will give his complete life reading for 50 cents; satisfaction absolutely guaranteed or no fee accepted. Everything strictly sacred and confidential. His residence is arranged so you meet no strangers. Don't mistake name and number. PROF. JAMES WHITE, TWO HUNDRED AND NINETY-THREE WARREN-AV., bet. Robey and Hoyne-av., West Side. Consultation hours, 10 to 6. Sundays included. Letters with stamp answered.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

ANNUAL CLEARANCE OF SLIGHTLY USED PIANOS.

Opportunity to buy a Steinway, Weber, Knabe, or other well known piano at very small cost.

Following our annual custom, we announce a special sale of slightly used pianos. Here and there in our stock are pianos that are not quite of the latest model, or have had some slight use, or have been taken in exchange. All these Steinways, Webers, Knabes, and other instruments have been placed one side and marked for immediate sale. We wish to avoid carrying even one of them over into next season's stock.

Piano seekers would do well to examine these pianos before purchasing an instrument at ordinary valuations. We enumerate a few only.

Steinway small upright, ebonized case, good as new; Steinway Baby Grand, shows hardly any trace of use; Steinway medium size upright, mahogany case, rented short time; Steinway, same as above, in ebony case; Steinway cabinet grand upright, ebony case, in excellent condition; Steinway small upright, in fine playing order; Weber upright, medium size, walnut; Weber cabinet grand, walnut case; Weber baby grand, mahogany case, latest pattern; Knabe cabinet grand, mahogany case, used for concert purposes only; Knabe parlor grand, very dainty.

Also very attractive bargains in a carload of latest model uprights from a good maker, bought recently at an extra discount. They are of intrinsically good musical value and will be closed out at $185.

A special lot of new uprights, all woods; greatest value in Chicago, at $145.

Also a room full of new and second hand uprights, your choice at $195, either cash or long time payments. Many of these pianos have been held at $300. Several leading makes are included. A number of very fine pianos from a musical standpoint will be found in the collection. The extreme dullness of the past summer makes it peremptory upon us to reduce this stock at once.

Visitors are always cordially welcome to our salesrooms. From 8 a. m. until 6 p. m. groups of piano customers will always be found upon our piano floors, but we have such ample facilities and such a large corps of salesmen that we can sell twenty different instruments simultaneously without the least delay.

EASY PAYMENTS—Pianos may be secured by small first payment. On low priced pianos we are prepared to accept a cash payment of $10, and monthly payments thereafter of $5. No advance in price when easy terms are desired. Pianos of all descriptions included in this offer.

Buyers at a distance should write for special bargain list and also our schedule of freight rates on pianos.

We ship pianos everywhere.

EXCHANGE CERTIFICATES—With every inexpensive piano we include free a certificate which gives the owner the privilege of exchanging said instrument as part pay toward any new piano of higher cost in our stock.

QUICK TURNS IN WHEAT.

MARKET NERVOUS AND ERRATIC, CLOSING STRONG.

Rains in the Northwest the Chief Bullish Influence, Reports of Damage to Cut and Uncut Grain Following—Volume of Outside Speculative Trade Smaller—Corn Prices Higher on the Wet Weather — Oats Firm — Sharp Break in Provisions.

Some of the stanchest of the local bulls confessed to a feeling of uncertainty about the wheat market yesterday, a belief that at present prices it was on debatable ground. While this was a bearish confession for a bull, the market acted much as though the opinion was correct. It was more than unusually nervous and erratic, fluctuating sharply up or down, covering the same ground several times, and executing such rapid changes of front that the quickest scalper in the pit had considerable difficulty in keeping up with it.

The close was on one of the strong turns at net gains of 1¼c for the new September and ⅝c for the December and the May. Wet weather in the northwest—showers at several points in the Dakotas shown on the weather map, more reported during the session, and more predicted for today—furnished the chief bullish influence. There were complaints of grain lodging because of the rain, reminders that such conditions would interfere with an early movement, and the usual quota of bad thrashing returns. There was an opening spurt on the new trouble for the spring wheat, prices up about ¼c, but the commission demand was smaller than of late, there was some pressure to sell September and December, and the market broke rapidly to ⅝c under the previous close.

This decline was checked by fair local buying of May on the break, and when the market started up it went quickly on the northwestern news, the May having an advance of nearly 2c from 99¼c to $1.11⅝. Pit traders followed the buying, but the commission demand continued tame, and on apparent efforts to market a line of wheat on the bulge, together with some northwestern selling, there was another quick break, the May off to within ¼c of the early low point.

September Wheat Wanted.

Renewed buying here, however, by commission houses and a late demand for the September, which found the market bare of offerings, caused a sharp recovery, the May closing at $1.10¾. The sharp spurt in the September seemed to indicate that shorts were afraid there might be no wheat out on September deliveries after all, in spite of the recent output of No. 3 hard winter from private houses, about 450,000 bu in six days. Cash people, however, thought some wheat would go around.

The late September buying was led by Ware-Leland, while Wrenn took a good deal of December and May on the last break. Mitchell, Lichstern, and Requa picked up wheat on the soft spots. One of the sharp declines was started by selling by brokers the crowd thought was for Patten, and another by selling by Spencer-Denniston.

Pit traders seemed equally afraid of being caught short wheat on the bulges or long on the declines. A feature of the market was the marked falling off in the commission trade, and scalpers were inclined to sell because of this falling off in outside interest, but ran quickly when any demand developed on the breaks. There was some selling for northwest account in spite of the bad crop news from that section and reports of improved flour demand.

The cash market was firm for the good grades, the low grade hard winters still dragging. Kansas City reported cash wheat up 2c, with interior reported taking a few cars of No. 4 hard at 96½c. Minneapolis reported 38 lb wheat selling at 80c, equal to $1.26 a bu for 60 lb wheat. There were some claims from the southwest that the movement would fall off and some contradictions. Kansas City got more wheat than last year again, as did St. Louis, and primary receipts were 1,080,000 bu, compared with 744,000 bu last year. Export sales of 24,000 bu were reported. Clearances were 22,000 bu. Foreign markets were all lower.

Rally in Corn.

Scattered rain in Nebraska and the southwest exerted a helpful influence on corn prices. There was local and commission buying because the corn belt was not getting the warm forcing weather needed to mature the crop. The May sold up ⅞c to 50c, but this price brought out free offerings which held the market, the close at 49⅞c sellers, or a gain of ⅝-¾c, the September up ⅝c and the December closing ⅜-½c higher. The opening was strong on covering by pit traders who had gone home short in the anticipation of better weather instead of worse. There were a number of claims from Illinois, Nebraska, and Iowa that fine weather would be needed all this month to mature the crop and they had some effect on the speculative mood. Receipts keep liberal, 337 cars inspected in and 450 estimated for today. Primary receipts were 1,070,000 bu, compared with 626,000 bu a year ago. Cash prices were ½c higher, the shipping demand almost nil, both from the seaboard and interior points; no sales reported. Clearances were 160,000 bu and export sales of 80,000 bu were reported. Liverpool futures were ¼d lower; spot unchanged. Comstock and Spencer-Denniston were fair buyers of May; Pringle the best seller.

Sympathetic Advance in Oats.

Oats played follow the leader again, advancing moderately in sympathy with the corn strength. The advance was checked by a moderate amount of September liquidation under the influence of the contribution of about 150,000 bu of standard oats out of private elevators and the expectation of free deliveries today. The September gained only ⅛c, the December and the May up ⅜c. There was more or less selling of September and buying of May by brokers. Cash houses sold December. Wrenn was a good buyer of May. There are continued reports that farmers have stopped selling oats since the break in the September, and receipts are lighter, 20 cars in and 208 estimated for today. The shipping demand, however, continues poor, no sales reported. The cash market was steady. Clearances were 23,000 bu, export sales 40,000 bu.

September Product Weak.

Selling, which was almost panicky by holders of the near deliveries, characterized the provision trade. Increased labor troubles at the yards and a decline of 10@15c in hog prices were the chief influences, and the market was nervous and weak most of the day in the face of corn strength. The September selling was both by local and outside holders, some of whom were changing over into the May and others selling outright. The disposition to run away from the cash stuff made May deliveries relatively firm, pork losing 15c, lard 5@7½c, and ribs 2½@5c, against losses of 27½@32½c in nearby pork, 12½@17½c in lard, and 7½@20c in ribs, thus widening carrying charges sharply. Local hog receipts were 26,000 head, and 16,000 are estimated for today. Liverpool lard and bacon were 6d higher.

Rye steady. September, 71½c; December, 72½c; No. 2 spot sold at 73½@74c f. o. b., and No. 2 at 72c. Receipts, 6 cars.

Barley was easy. Malting sales from 40@53c; feed from 34@38c, and screenings from 30@40c. Receipts, 31 cars.

Flaxseed steady. No. 1 northwestern, $1.25; No. 1, $1.18; September, $1.18; December, $1.20½. Receipts, 1 car here, 11 at Minneapolis, and 8 at Duluth.

Timothy seed steady to firm. September sold at $2.95 and October at $2.90. Country lots, $2.40@2.75. Clover seed steady at $12.50 for spot prime and $9.50@12.00 for country lots.

INTERESTING TRADE GOSSIP ON 'CHANGE.

It takes all kinds of thrashing reports to make a wheat market these days, and yesterday there were good, bad, and indifferent in liberal quantities, with the majority, perhaps, belonging to the bad and indifferent categories. A Comstock (Minn.) wire to Pringle-Fitch-Rankin said: "A large rig with a thirty horse power engine ran steadily for a half day and got out 200 bu. That was four miles north of here. Thrashing returns from Kragness, Minn., show 60 bu off of eighty acres, and quit disgusted." A Britton message to A. J. White said: "The land in this section showed sufficient straw to produce from 15 to 25 bu of wheat to the acre, but upon being cut and thrashed the yield did not run over 9 bu, and occasionally dropped as low as 4 bu." Others were of the same sort, but some were more hopeful. A Huron (S. D.) correspondent wired: "Wheat thrashing out 6 to 18 bu to the acre, about an average of 10 bu."

On the eve of the first day for September deliveries there was some difference of opinion concerning the probability of any wheat being put out on September contracts, but general agreement that there would be no deliveries of corn and fair deliveries of oats. In the last six days 450,000 bu No. 2 hard winter wheat have been turned out of private elevators, undoubtedly to fill sales of new September. Perhaps a majority of the cash people think there will be fairly good deliveries of No. 2 hard, and one broker expressed an opinion that possibly some of the poorer No. 2 red in store might be delivered on old September, although it is quotably ½c over. The fact that no sales of round lots of No. 2 hard have been reported recently makes it hard to quote a price, but brokers say a few small lots have sold at 2c under September. On the basis of yesterday's close this would be $1.04¾, and, adding the elevator charge, ⅝c, $1.05⅝.

Several local bulls were more guarded yesterday in their statements on the position of the market. J. Rankin said: "The wheat market is on debatable ground now and is liable to run a cent or two either way at any time, but I believe the final outcome will be higher." J. F. Jackson said: "Probably one of the weakest features in the wheat market now is the lack of short selling. The low estimates given out by crop experts is going to materially curtail offerings from short sellers as compared with previous years. With only enough wheat for home consumption, the hedging sales are also going to be small. With this condition of affairs there is not going to be much wheat to trade on unless it develops that the crop is a larger one than generally believed. A wheat market without a great deal of wind in it is apt to be as dull an affair as a becalmed yacht race."

"The action in corn for the present," says F. C. Aldrich, "depends on the weather for the next three weeks. With a frost we would have a lively upturn. Besides that, it is a question whether 50c corn is not warranted in view of the present prices for wheat. The receipts of corn will run pretty liberal here for several days more at least on sales made by country when prices were 2c higher. Receivers today report last night's acceptances small. General complaint of cool nights throughout the corn country naturally makes many friends to corn, and I am inclined to believe the buyer around present prices has decidedly the best of it as long as wheat stays so well above a dollar."

A traveling correspondent of the Calumet and Western Elevator company writes on Nebraska corn: "The corn crop is in a critical condition, and any kind of a frost inside of two weeks would damage most all of the crop, and if we have frost inside of a month a good percentage will be damaged. The stalk is green, and a large percentage of it is little further along than roasting ears. We are having about one warm day and night to six cold ones each week. 'We can't buy any old corn, and yesterday we bid ½c better than Chicago September price delivered Mississippi river and didn't get a carload.'"

There is as much disagreement over the character and extent of the cash demand for wheat as there was for a long time concerning the question of damage to the spring wheat crop by rust. In the local market there is a fair though small demand for choice winter wheats, but the off grades, particularly of hard winters, are slow. Some of the big southwestern distributers report a considerable falling off in the cash demand at Kansas City, in spite of which there are occasional reports of a sale or two at high prices, an interior miller taking eight cars of No. 4 hard wheat at Kansas City at 96½c.

Director Sage of the Iowa weather bureau said: "The most advanced fields show ears well filled and dented, while the bulk is mostly in the roasting ear stage. Reports indicate that with normal weather about one-third of the crop may be fairly well matured by Sept. 20, and that to ripen the full crops there is need of abundant warmth and sunshine till Oct. 1."

The edge seemed to be off the demand for cash corn and oats, and no shipping sales were reported. Export brokers said there was no demand. A Montreal wire to Gibson said: "No inducements to bring corn here. Export bids are no good." The seaboard, however, claimed sales of 10 boatloads.

Ward Ames of Ames, Brooks & Co., who is now in Winnipeg, wired: "Best estimates place crop at about 40,000,000. Harvesting is being delayed by rains, 20 per cent cut, and has been slightly frosted at scattering points; 20 per cent of crop not ready to cut for ten days yet."

A rumor that insurance had been canceled at the stockyards, combined with the spread of the strike to the plants of the smaller packers, demoralized provisions and caused free September liquidation. Insurance agents generally said they knew nothing of such a course being taken.

A few oats are being booked for export every day now at the seaboard. Some were shipped to Antwerp Tuesday, and there were bookings yesterday of 40,000 bu oats for late September shipment to London.

A St. Louis message reported Langenburg as saying he had orders to ship 190,000 bu of our No. 2 red to millers as soon as it is delivered on September contracts.

Estimated receipts are: Wheat, 96 cars; corn, 450 cars; oats, 208 cars; rye, 15 cars; barley, 38 cars; hogs, 16,000 head.

A St. Louis exporter claimed a lot of 3,000 sacks of flour was accepted by London.

There were charters for 125,000 bu standard oats to Buffalo.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

Best Cattle Are Steady, but Hogs Suffer Declines of from Ten to Thirty Cents.

Liberal receipts of live stock and the fresh outbreak in the packing house strike gave buyers an opportunity to make a big reduction in prices nearly all along the line. The choicest cattle were around steady, many lots selling up to $6.10, but the general fat cattle market was 10@25c lower. Hogs sold early at 10@15c decline up to $5.72½ for light and $5.67½ for heavy, but the late market broke 20@30c. The best sheep and lambs were steady, but values weakened later.

FLURRY IN TRACTION OVER

PRINCIPAL BUYER OF WEST CHICAGO QUITS MARKET.

Only a Few Shares of City Railway Traded In—Annual Report of Chicago Terminal Transfer — Local Bank Clearings for July Show Best Increase for the Year—Average, However, Is Practically Same as Last Year—Railway Earnings.

Buying of City railway and West Chicago stocks subsided early yesterday. There were some dealings at the opening of the exchange, but total transactions in City railway amounted to only ten shares. In West Chicago the buying was to the extent of 170 shares. Owing to the gossip on the street holders of West Chicago stock apparently thought they might get better prices and refused to sell. The house that had been buying the shares withdrew and there being no public interest the market became stagnant.

The City railway buying of the previous day, which was the basis for the stories circulated in the afternoon, is understood to have been for local account, in no way connected with Union Traction councils. West Chicago buying of the previous day was on New York orders, but there was no assertion in the street that it was directly for the account of those interests which have been seeking a franchise.

Disappointment in the Street.

There was some disappointment in the street to find that the City railway advance was not caused by insiders but was due to speculative purchases. Every time prices have advanced the upward movement has been credited to the desire of Union Traction interests to get control of the property. The City Railway would be the one profitable asset in a reorganization of the surface lines. Its control has long been desired, but never acquired.

Last May there were free offerings of the stock at private sale, but traction interests felt gloomy themselves and nothing of consequence was done. Control of the property is held by three or four large interests, whose holding could only be acquired much above market quotations. However, what insiders might pay privately for stock would not be a criterion for market values. When Charles T. Yerkes sold his West and North Chicago holdings to the Union Traction crowd, he got around 130 for West Chicago. Outsiders bid the price up in the market to 127⅝. There was no demand from Union Traction interests for floating stock and the values melted rapidly when it was found there was to be no buying in the open market.

City Railway stock is in the same position. When Judge Grosscup's decision was rendered it advanced from 170 to 180, being bought by those willing to speculate on its future value. After a few weeks the advance was entirely lost. West Chicago gained 10 points and lost in the same way.

It is not considered possible at this time to fix on any value for West Chicago. An assessment on the shares will be made and if that cannot be carried out bonds will be issued ahead of the stock, making it unproductive from a dividend standpoint for some years. North Chicago is in the same position, while Union Traction issues have a much less favorable outlook than the old stocks, though Traction common and preferred have both advanced in the present local market.

Terminal Transfer.

The annual report of the Chicago Terminal Transfer shows that fixed charges in the last year increased $31,800, owing to the sale of additional first mortgage bonds put out to pay in part for new mileage and other additions to the property. The decrease in gross receipts of rents amounted to $100,951, and was due largely to the termination of the temporary lease with the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, and the New York, Chicago and St. Louis railroad companies. The loss in receipts was due also to a decrease in traffic amounting to $74,656. The increase in operating expenses was due principally to increased cost of fuel and extraordinary weather condition. The balance sheet of the company on July 1, 1904, follows:

Union Pacific Dividend.

Wall street talk is now to the effect that the dividend rate on Union Pacific common will not be advanced to 5 per cent in the current fiscal year. It is asserted, however, that with Southern Pacific paying dividends at a 3 per cent rate and the revenue coming in from Northern Securities or its equivalent, the Union Pacific on its present earnings would be well able to pay 5 per cent on its present common stock and on $100,000,000 common stock, representing the convertible bonds, and still have a surplus of $10,000,000 a year.

TRADING IRREGULAR AND PRICES LOWER AT CLOSE.

Many Active Issues Show Recessions—Reading, Erie, and St. Paul Forge to Front—Industrial List Is Led by Steel and Amalgamated Copper—Gain of Five Points in Chicago Union Traction Sets the Speculators to Guessing.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Trading in stocks was irregular today, price movements being uncertain on a lighter volume of business. The weakness at the close was more pronounced, many of the active issues touching the lowest prices of the day.

The reactionary tendency of Missouri Pacific, Missouri, Kansas and Texas, Atchison and Colorado Southern, properties whose earnings are likely to be adversely affected by any serious damage to the corn crop, also helped to check the upward course of the list. In some quarters, however, the weakness of Missouri Pacific and other Gould stocks, as well as Colorado Southern, was attributed to more important reasons.

The wheat situation was again watched with unusual interest and the unsettled condition of the cotton market was viewed with disfavor. Following the initial decline there was early buying of Reading, Erie, and St. Paul at improved prices, the first named advancing on a relative heavy volume of trading to a new high record. The Metropolitan issues recovered in large measure from yesterday's weakness.

Steel shares and Amalgamated Copper led the industrial group, London being again a reported purchaser of Steel preferred. Aside from the increased strength of Reading and several other active coalers, indecision marked the course of the market all through the early session. There was no news to account for the sharp gains and heavy buying of Consolidated Tobacco bonds and the stocks of affiliated companies. The movement bore evidence of manipulation, though it was reported that a plan is being devised to readjust the capitalization of the Consolidated company.

No explanation was vouchsafed for the 5 point gain in Chicago Union Traction preferred, but the abrupt break in Chicago Terminal Transfer issues probably resulted from the poor financial statement recently issued. The preferred stock fell to a new low record. Erie held comparatively steady in spite of material recessions elsewhere. Steel preferred, which rivaled Reading and Erie in activity, made a 1 point gain. Trading for London account aggregated about 50,000 shares, of which fully 40,000 shares represented sales of Erie, Southern railway, and Reading.

Old United States government registered 4 per cent bonds advanced one-fourth of 1 per cent and the same issue coupons ⅜, while the new 4s declined ¼ on call. Business in railway and speculative issues was unusually heavy. Total sales, par value, amounted to $6,745,000.

Close: Money on call easy, ⅞@1 per cent; closing bid, ⅞, offered at 1 per cent. Time loans easy and dull; 60 days, 2 per cent; 90 days, 2½; six months, 3½. Close: Prime mercantile paper, 3½@4 per cent. Sterling exchange steady, with actual business in bankers' bill at 487.47@487.55 for demand, and at 484.75@484.80 for 60 day bills. Posted rates, 485½ and 488½. Commercial bills, 484½@484⅝. Bar silver, 57c. Mexican dollars, 45¼c. Government bonds, irregular. Railroad bonds, irregular.

NEWS OF THE INSURANCE WORLD.

EDITED BY C. M. CARTWRIGHT.

Eastern News Telegraphed from New York Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin.

CHICAGO MAN VICE PRESIDENT.

Charles D. Dunlop, Western Manager, Chosen for New Post by the Providence-Washington Directors.

The directors of the Providence-Washington Insurance company at their meeting this week elected as vice president Charles D. Dunlop of Chicago, the western manager of the company. He will move to Providence in a short time to take up his new duties. The position of vice president had not been filled since President J. B. Branch was promoted from that place. It is believed Mr. Dunlop's hand will be shown extensively in the fire insurance department of the company, allowing President Branch to devote his time to the marine and financial ends.

Mr. Dunlop came to Chicago in 1895, when the western department and the mountain department, located at Denver, were consolidated. He had been manager of the mountain department since 1892, going to that position from the Commercial Union, of which he was special agent in the mountain field. Mr. Dunlop has occupied a prominent place in underwriting circles, being a member of the governing committee of the Western Union, president of the insurance survey bureau, and president of the western classification bureau.

Mr. Dunlop has chosen as his successor as western manager Will L. King, assistant western manager of the Queen Insurance company. Mr. King was for many years a field man in the northwest, and came to Chicago to be department examiner of the Continental. He then took a similar position with the western department of the National of Hartford, going from that company to his present place. Mr. King is secretary of the Minndakowis club, the organization of northwestern field men. He also is chairman of the library committee of the Fire Underwriters' Association of the Northwest, and is largely responsible for the extension work that is being carried on in connection with the library.

The Chicago agency of Chandler & Wurtele has been dissolved, Charles T. Chandler having purchased the interest of Josias G. Wurtele. Mr. Wurtele is forced for the time being to discontinue active work on account of his health. The firm name for the present will remain the same.

Maj. J. B. Day of Columbus, O., who has just retired as agency director of the New York Life in central Ohio, takes the same field as manager of the life department of the Travelers'.

The Casualty Company of America is engaging in a new line of liability insurance, known as municipal liability. This indemnifies cities and towns which carry on their own contract work. The company believes the field is a large one, and is instructing its agents to solicit this form of insurance.

Companies writing bank burglary insurance are becoming more exacting as to the kind of safes in banks. Some companies refuse to write banks in country towns that have inferior safes. There have been a number of claims on part of banks where it is stated that safes have been misrepresented.

F. A. Durham, formerly editor of the Underwriters' Review of Des Moines, and later assistant secretary of the National Life and Trust, died a few days ago following an operation for appendicitis.

The Connecticut Fire has entered New Mexico.

Following the receivership for the American Legion of Honor, members all over the country are filing claims. One attorney usually represents all the members in one city.

W. H. Phillips has been elected assistant secretary of the Providence-Washington. He has been in the employ of the home office since 1882.

Will Accuse Chicago Men.

Kenosha, Wis., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Walter M. Cowell, arrested a short time ago on account of his alleged connections with so-called "wildcat" insurance companies, appeared in the United States court in Milwaukee this afternoon at the request of the federal officers to give evidence against men wanted on similar charges. Cowell has offered to Inspector Ketcham the correspondence that passed between him and certain men in Chicago who are now under arrest. Cowell alleges the men in Chicago attempted to throw the blame on him, and that for this reason he has decided to give the federal officers every possible aid.

NEWS NOTES FROM NEW YORK.

Retiring Chairman of Canadian Manufacturers Points Out Fire Insurance Defects.

New York, Aug. 31.—[Special.]—In his address to members of the Montreal branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' association at their annual meeting, just held, the retiring chairman, C. C. Ballantyne, made reference to the fire insurance question.

"It is," said he, "quite patent to every Canadian business man that the Canadian fire insurance business not only in Montreal but throughout Canada is in an undesirable condition. The fact is, I believe, that the better element of insurance men themselves are dissatisfied with it. The elements in this condition are: First, that a great volume of business is being placed with United States corporations that have thrown off antiquated and adopted modern methods; and, second, that Canadian industries that are continuing to insure in board companies are being burdened with abnormally high premiums, sometimes reaching as much as the total expenses of taxes, rent, fuel, and light.

"I am pleased to know that insurance companies at last have decided to adopt a system of specific rating. This is something the manufacturers of this city have urged on insurance companies for many years with apparently little success. A large majority of sprinkler risks in this city are carried by American companies. In fact, it is almost safe to assume that whenever you see a water tank for sprinkler purposes in connection with a manufacturing plant, such risk is being carried by an American company. The Canadian policy of the past of rating different classes of manufacturing businesses at fixed rates irrespective of individual character and risk always has been, to my mind, a most peculiar way of doing business.

"Canadian fire underwriters have not attached enough importance to the use of sprinklers and other fire appliances. As a consequence, American insurance companies today have a large majority of the safe manufacturing risks in this city at rates profitable to them. Why, then, should not the Canadian Fire Underwriters' association and insurance companies urge all manufacturers to put in sprinklers and provide all modern fire precautions, the same as American companies are doing, and subsequently rate each risk on its merits, and keep the insurance of the Canadian manufacturer in this country. To my mind, this would be preferable to the policy of not encouraging these modern facilities, a policy which, on account of its high rates, drives insurance out of the country.

"The recent increase of 50 cents in congested districts of the city has brought it home to us that some definite action must be taken to ameliorate affairs. I am not inclined to take the view that the city is without fault in this matter. There is much to be done, particularly towards increasing the pumping capacity, so there will be a reserve in winter months, and also towards making a uniform increase in the size of water mains in the congested district. And yet we must bear in mind the city has done much in the last three years to improve the fire fighting service—improvements which received scant recognition at the hands of insurance companies. Those of us who have had dealings with the board insurance companies know they adopt every pretext to maintain or increase rates."

LONDON, Aug. 31.—The sale of the Scottish Employers and General Insurance company to the London and Lancashire Fire Insurance company was confirmed at a meeting of shareholders today after heated discussion. By a show of hands the shareholders demanded a postponement to consider a better offer promised from another company, but the directors insisted upon a poll of the vote and obtained a large majority.

25,000 TROOPS TO PASS IN REVIEW AT MANEUVERS.

Will Be the Spectacular Feature of Military Evolutions Soon to Begin in Virginia.

Corps Headquarters, Gainesville, Va., Aug. 31.—The grand review of the 25,000 troops, to be held at Wellington Sept. 10, is regarded by Gen. Corbin as the only really spectacular feature of the maneuvers of the army, about to begin, so far as the public is concerned.

The troops from all camps will be marched toward Wellington early on the morning of that day. They are all expected to be in their prescribed places at 10:30 o'clock in the morning, when they will be given an hour for rest and lunch. Gen. Chaffee, chief of staff of the army, is to be the reviewing officer. With him will be Assistant Secretary of War Oliver, Gen. Corbin and staff, and perhaps other officers. It is expected that it will take four hours for the troops to pass in review.

Two high power automobiles from Cleveland are scheduled to arrive at headquarters today. They are to be placed at the disposal of Gen. Corbin for the use of his eighty guests.

Officers from the two main camps continue to ride about the country planning their attacks and defenses.

HOLDS COURT IN AMBULANCE.

Justice in Moving Vehicle Arraigns Man Accused of Attempts at Murder and Suicide.

In an ambulance on its way to the county jail hospital, Justice Sabath yesterday morning arraigned Joseph Nenrava, 690 May street, accused of an attempt to murder his sweetheart. Nenrava almost was unconscious from a bullet wound in his abdomen, alleged to have been self-inflicted, so Justice Sabath continued the hearing to Sept. 9, and returned to the Maxwell street police court.

Nenrava's alleged victim is Elizabeth Mourek, 17 years old, 26 Nutt street. The man, it is charged, concealed himself in a clothes closet in her house Monday night, and when she returned, shot her in the left hip. Then, it is said, he held the revolver to his side, fired, and rushed from the house.

Nenrava, who is 20 years old, was not located until yesterday morning, when it was found he had returned home. He then was placed in the ambulance and taken past the police station, where Justice Sabath boarded the vehicle.

The police learned that Miss Mourek two weeks ago rejected Nenrava, who long had been courting her.

ACCUSES THE EDISON COMPANY

Madison Concern Which Inspects Meters Asks Damages for Alleged Attempt to Wreck Its Business.

Trouble between the Madison Electric company and the Edison Electric company reached a crisis yesterday when the former began suit for $200,000 damages against the rival corporation. Only a præcipe was filed, but R. H. Ehlest, president of the Madison company, says the suit is based on an alleged attempt of the Edison company to wreck the complainant's business. The Madison company inspects meters and audits bills for consumers of light, showing the consumer where an overcharge has been made so he can get a rebate.

RAILWAY OFFICIAL OUT: TO ENTER COAL BUSINESS.

Vice President Carpenter of Pere Marquette Resigns After Consolidation—New Grain Rates for Chicago.

Myron J. Carpenter has resigned as vice president and general manager of the Père Marquette. He will give up railroading and engage in the wholesale coal business.

Mr. Carpenter resigned the presidency of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad three years ago, just before the absorption of that road by the Frisco system, to become vice president and general manager of the Père Marquette.

Under his management the latter road has been extended into Chicago and has secured an outlet to Buffalo by a trackage arrangement. Mr. Carpenter undoubtedly would have remained the executive head of the Père Marquette system had it not been for the absorption of this road by the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton and the subsequent appointment of Russell Harding as president of the Père Marquette. Mr. Harding personally took the management of the consolidated properties.

New Grain Rates for Chicago.

Grain from St. Paul and Minneapolis, after Sept. 11, cannot be shipped through to the seaboard at a rate that places Chicago shippers at a disadvantage. For some time the board of trade transportation committee of this city has been protesting against the practice of the railroads allowing grain from the Twin Cities to the seaboard to go through Chicago without allowing it milling in transit privileges. The Chicago-St. Paul lines were willing to grant the privilege, but the east bound lines objected, because it would have reduced their profits. They have now decided to stop the joint arrangement with the Chicago-St. Paul roads, and hereafter will add the east bound rate from Chicago to New York, 17½ cents, to whatever rate the Minneapolis-Chicago lines may make.

Transportation Notes.

Stockholders of the Chicago and Alton railroad company were to have met here yesterday to authorize the issue of $5,850,000 3 per cent refunding fifty year gold bonds. Owing to the fact that E. H. Harriman will not return from Europe until today or tomorrow the meeting was postponed for one week.

W. E. Morse, who resigned the position of general superintendent of the St. Louis, Kansas City, and Colorado, when that road was consolidated with the Rock Island system, has been appointed superintendent of the Chicago and Northwestern's Galena division.

President Felton of the Chicago and Alton says there is no truth in the report that General Manager Goodnow intends to leave the service of the company.

The Baltimore and Ohio hereafter will give free expert medical attention to the families of employés.

RAID RESIDENCE AS POOLROOM.

Police Arrest Florence and Harry Tyrrell, 4249 Indiana Avenue, Charged with Taking Bets.

Detectives from Assistant Chief of Police Schuettler's office yesterday found what they consider a most flagrant violation of the laws regarding handbooks. They arrested Florence Tyrrell and her brother Harry at their home, 4249 Indiana avenue. In this place they declare that women who would not venture into a gambling house operated by men have bet on the races. Racing news has been carried to the house by messengers, it is supposed.

In Herman Wirsching's saloon, 1293 West Twelfth street, Edward Johnson was arrested as operator of a handbook. Charles Rodgers was arrested on a similar charge in a saloon at 1377 West Twelfth street.

Schuettler believes that the men being arrested are backed by the "big" gamblers, who have pretended to "quit the business."

CALL A LUMBERMAN INSOLVENT

Creditors on Indorsed Notes Aggregating $42,268 File Bankruptcy Claims Against Frederick Rietz.

Declaring Frederick Rietz insolvent, creditors with claims aggregating $42,268 yesterday asked that a receiver be appointed to take charge of the lumberman's assets. The Commercial National bank asks $25,300, the Metropolitan Trust and Savings bank $13,968, and Willett M. Vernon $3,000. Rietz indorsed notes of the North Branch Lumber company, which recently became bankrupt, and the claims grew out of these. He is said to own large timber tracts in Michigan and Wisconsin, as well as Chicago porperty.

The New York subtreasury since last Friday has gained $552,000 from the banks.

The circular letter to stockholders of the South Side Elevated offering $3,000,000 bonds was issued yesterday.

The July showing of the Chicago Pneumatic Tool company is declared by President Duntley to have been the usual record making one.

Chicago Stocks.

Aside from the trading in the traction shares there was considerable interest in National Biscuit common. The stocks have ceased to advance. Indeed they have declined in the last few days.

National Carbon issues made new high records. The common went to 40 and the preferred to 115.

American Can shares were active, but price changes were small.

Sales on the Chicago stock exchange yesterday were as follows:

IN THE FOREIGN MONEY MARKET.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Money was in strong demand today on the announcement of a new treasury bill issue. Discounts strengthened. Operators on the stock exchange were almost exclusively occupied with the completion of the settlement, many being absent, anticipating Saturday's holiday. Consols recovered from an initial decline. Americans opened dull, rallied to above parity, became inactive, and closed easier. Foreigners were firm on Paris supporting Russians. Japanese hardened. Imperial Japanese government 6s of 1904 were quoted at 96½.

PARIS, Aug. 31.—On the bourse today the tone was firm, except for Russians, which were unsteady. Russian imperial 4s were quoted at 98.75, and Russian bonds of 1904 at 506. The private rate of discount was 1⅝@1¾ per cent.

BERLIN, Aug. 31.—Trading on the boerse today was quiet. Prices were irregular.

DATA COMPILED FOR AUGUST SHOWS ACTIVITY IN REALTY.

Improved Conditions Are Evidenced by the Increase Over Last Year in Number and Extent of Transfers.

Substantial evidence of improved conditions in the real estate market, according to the dealers, is found in the figures for August, which show a considerable increase in the number and extent of transfers filed for record as compared with the corresponding month last year. The figures are 2,258 transfers amounting to $8,509,282, as against 1,996 transfers for an aggregate of $7,885,661 for August, 1903. This is an increase of 262 in number and $623,621 in amount.

Owing to the falling off in the earlier months of the year, a considerable decrease is shown in the total considerations for the eight months of the year as compared with the corresponding period of 1903, amounting to $6,722,192, although there is an increase of 157 in the number of transfers. Much of the falling off is more apparent than real, however, for the reason that nearly $4,000,000 of the amount is included in a transfer of Chicago and Milwaukee Electric railway property and is not to be classed as a real estate transaction.

Flat Property Is Transferred.

John S. Erickson has sold to Mary Mehlem the apartment house property in Maiden street, 255 feet south of Leland avenue, with 50x160 feet of ground, west front, for $25,000, including an incumbrance of $14,000.

Hedwig Weber has purchased from William C. Hill the flat property in Jefferson avenue, 213 feet north of Fifty-fifth street, with 40x150 feet of ground, west front, for $24,000, subject to an incumbrance of $12,000.

Benjamin F. Mitchell has sold to Peter Herdick and others 75x125 feet in Loring avenue, 173 feet north of Seventy-third street, and 24x120 feet in Chicago avenue, 73 feet west of Spaulding avenue, for $25,000, with incumbrance of $7,500.

John J. Mitchell has acquired from Jeannette O. Lindell 50x161 feet, with flat improvements, in Wabash avenue, 181 feet north of Fifty-ninth street, for $18,928.

Francis X. Barter has purchased from Emma M. Cluer 25x118 feet, with flat improvements, in North State street, 75 feet north of Chicago avenue, for $17,250, with an incumbrance of $5,500.

Other Real Estate Transactions.

A trust deed given by the Interstate Independent Telephone and Telegraph company of New Jersey, with offices in Jersey City, Chicago, and Aurora, to the American Trust and Savings bank in January, 1902, to cover a bond issue of $50,000,000, was filed for record.

William B. Isham has sold to John S. Field 275 by 100 feet in Rosebud avenue, 60 feet northwest of Wabansia avenue and other property, for $15,350. The buyer gave back a purchase money mortgage for $10,233, three years, at 5 per cent.

Peabody, Houghteling & Co. have made a loan of $80,000, five and a half years, at 4½ per cent, to John B. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y., on the property at 282-285 Michigan avenue, 52 by 165 feet, with a new four story and basement building.

The Merchants' Loan and Trust company is trustee in a loan of $100,000, five years at 4 per cent, to Martha Hill, secured on the property at 178-180 Wabash avenue, 54 by 171 feet, with six story building.

WATER RESISTS A "PULL."

EX-ALDERMAN'S BUILDINGS CUT OFF FROM SUPPLY.

Supt. Philipp Tells of Long Warfare with Patrick Saunders, Supposed Owner of Woodlawn Buildings, on Which Back Rates Are Due—One Service Pipe After Another Taken Out and Now Department Is Awaiting Next Move of Its Opponent.

The story of six months' warfare to make ex-Ald. Patrick Saunders pay water rates was told yesterday by Supt. Philipp. Saunders, who represented the old Second ward four years in the council, is credited with owning 6316-8 Washington avenue and 282 Sixty-third street, neighboring houses. Water rates past due now amount to $102, it is reported.

"In March I sent out a gang to remove the pipe connected with the Washington avenue house," Philipp said. "The men had to build fires to thaw the ground, and the woman occupying the house told them they would have a hard time to find the pipes, which were cleverly hidden, she said. They gave it up after two days, but went again in the spring, dug a trench in front of the house, 145 feet long and 8 feet deep, located the pipe, and cut it.

"Then we heard that water in buckets was being furnished to the Washington avenue house by the Sixty-third street house. We sent out a caution. It was neglected and we cut off that house.

"Two weeks later, which was two weeks ago, Saunders agreed to pay the $102 in two days. Yesterday he had not paid and I sent the gang out. They found that from 284 Sixty-third street, containing a paint shop and a political club, a pipe had been run to 282 through a hole in the wall, and that the Washington avenue house also was being furnished by this means. My men cut this pipe out. That is the way things stand now."

In four months, Philipp said, his men were driven out of four houses at the point of revolvers.

Except where back taxes are due water is not being shut off in the stockyards neighborhood among the homes of the strikers.

Justice of the District of Columbia Supreme Court Refuses to Grant Request.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—In the Supreme court of the District of Columbia today Justice Stafford denied the application for a receiver for Thomas E. Waggaman, against whom proceedings in bankruptcy were instituted several days ago by three local banks. Justice Stafford said his action would not prejudice the right of any parties in interest again to apply for the appointment of a receiver.

CHICAGO REAL ESTATE ASSESSED VALUATIONS, 1904.

Board of review	$291,329,547
Board of assessors	296,962,402
Gain over last year's reviewers' figures	1,846,254

The total cash valuation of Cook county real estate, as fixed by the board of review for 1904, is $1,574,952,700. This gives an assessed valuation of $314,990,540, or one-fifth, and a gain of $1,423,405 over the reviewers' figures of a year ago.

Chief Clerk Homer Galpin of the board yesterday returned the footings of the towns. It is expected that the totals in personal property valuations will be ready the last of the week. These will increase the total of assessed valuations by an approximate $88,000,000.

The reviewers' total in real estate this year for Chicago is $291,329,547, assessed valuation. This is $1,846,254 more than returned by the board last year, despite the loss by transfer of railroad property in South Chicago to the value of nearly $3,500,000. It was, however, $4,622,855 less than had been returned by the assessors this year. In many cases the board was guided by the figures used last year in fixing real estate valuations, instead of using the amounts as fixed by the board of review, as required by law. This accounts for the discrepancy between the assessors' and the reviewers' figures, notwithstanding the increase in the valuation of real estate by reason of building and other improvements.

In the county the board of review returned $4,796,824 less assessed valuation than was returned by the board of review.

Difference Is Accounted For.

In South Chicago the difference between the assessors' and [illegible] reviewers' figures is accounted for by the [illegible]ale of railroad property to the Western India[illegible]a, Metropolitan, Atchison, Topeka and Sant[illegible] Fé, and other railroads. These will be included under the head of schedule "A" by the state board of equalization. An in[illegible]rease amounting to nearly a million dol[illegible]rs in West Chicago was caused by buildi[illegible]g improvements. The slight advance in Nor[illegible]h Chicago, real estate men said, indicates th[illegible]t there was comparatively little building [illegible]here in the last year, although there wa[illegible] considerable in Lake View.

Evanston lost near[illegible] $4,000,000 by the transfer of a slice of its [illegible] former territory to the new town of Ridge[illegible]ille, and the reviewers' action in making [illegible] 20 per cent reduction in acreage to corre[illegible]pond with a horizontal advance of a year [illegible]go. In the town of Lake a decrease from [illegible]ast year's figures is due to the exemptio[illegible] from taxation of small park property [illegible]nd in Lyons similar action was taken in [illegible]ehalf of the drainage board.

[illegible]ergymen returning from [illegible]acations will find our [illegible]de and ready-to-use [illegible]clothes—vestments—[illegible]ical furnishings—clerical hats, etc.—decidedly convenient—and economical of both time and money.

Great Stocks Here Must Be Closed Out Here.

We shall move in a short time, but we do not want to move these goods. We are buying new stocks for the new location at State and Madison streets, where we have purchased the business of H. G. Selfridge & Co. When we settle there—and it will be very soon—we desire to start with complete lines of merchandise, new from top to bottom. Our situation, you see, forces us to make clearing prices here that will absolutely sweep these stocks clean. And that is exactly the kind of prices we are making—every day.

The Marking Down Never Stops.

We are still able to offer unparalleled values, after the tremendous selling of fifteen days, because:

This is the clearing of an entire business—a business of the first class. The volume of sales ordinarily spread over months must be here crowded into weeks. That necessitates—and creates—low price-making not to be thought of at other times—impossible elsewhere.

And the range of these saving opportunities is as broad as the store. Every stock is embraced by the reductions.

The Clearing Must Be Complete.
